Voorhees as an Administration Champion—What the New York Herald Says of It—Other Chips from the Political Sea.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The Herald accounts for Voorhees' attack on Greeley by an interview between him and Senator Conkling, the two red heads together producing a natural fire and explosion, and from the dislike of Voorhees to Hendricks, who has uttered words of conciliation toward the Liberal Republicans. It is the old jealousy, and in this case very deliberate, for the writer says: "That this whole affair was premeditated, is further evidenced by the fact that Voorhees could not have made such a speech, brimming full of historical allusions, without studied preparation, and, further, by the fact that he acknowledged to a friend to-night: 'I have made this thing a study. I lay awake thinking about it so long that I dreamed of it last night. I don't think I have made a mistake, but I feel that I have done my duty.'"

The Post to-night says: "We are not among those who think the nomination of Mr. Greeley a simple joke. No doubt it is a nomination which has a great many ludicrous things about it. Mr. Greeley has always been a ludicrous object in our politics, but the nomination for Presidency of the best known editor in the United States means something quite different from a joke. And, when parties are drifting helplessly about in open sea without rudder or compass, it becomes a very serious matter. It is quite time that those who, of whatever party, believe the election of Mr. Greeley would be a serious national calamity, should arouse themselves to the fact that his election is not among the most unlikely things in the world."

The World and the more thoughtful Democrats are trying to create a feeling in the ranks of the party that the nomination of such men as Adams, Wm. S. Groesbeck, or Governor Randolph, of New Jersey, being the best hope of the party, may in Convention be carried; but it is one thing to commend a man in the columns of a newspaper, and another to get him chosen in Convention. When the Convention meets, the respectable party among the delegates will find itself swamped by mere numbers, just as at the Liberal Republican Convention.

Leading Southern Politicians on the Cincinnati Ticket—Governor Walker, of Virginia, a Presidential Barkis.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.—The comment upon Voorhees' speech of yesterday continues here to-day, and is particularly severe in Southern quarters. Congressmen from that quarter say that the speech will do Greeley vastly more good than harm, and that it will create positive strength for him in localities where the feeling was lukewarm before. Ex-Governor Magraw, of South Carolina, is here with several other prominent citizens from Charleston, in the same State, and they pronounce strongly in favor of the Cincinnati nominees.

Ex-Senator Willard Warner, of Alabama, who is now here, says that the Cincinnati nominations have completely revolutionized parties in his State, and that Greeley will carry it by an immense majority.

Governor Walker, of Virginia, is in training by a small set of local politicians here for the Presidency, and his name will be brought forward for this position in the Baltimore Convention.

Illinois County Conventions.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

AURORA, Ill., May 14.—The Kendall County Republican Convention met at Yorkville to-day, and nominated five delegates to the State Convention, and five delegates to the Congressional Convention, which is to meet at Morris. The latter were instructed for Dr. Wm. P. Pierce.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., May 14.—The Republican County Convention was held here to-day. The Congressional Delegates were instructed unanimously for General John McNulta, of Bloomington, for Congress from the Thirteenth District. Delegates to the State Convention were unanimously instructed for Oglesby for Governor, and W. M. Smith for Lieutenant Governor. A resolution requesting the call of a District Congressional Convention at Bloomington, on Tuesday, May 21, was adopted.

The following resolution was unanimously accepted:

Resolved, That we, the Republicans of McLean County, in Convention assembled, cordially indorse the present Administration, and hereby pledge ourselves to support the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention.

Hon. W. M. Smith made a short speech. It was a large and enthusiastic Convention. Only one delegate was absent out of 102.

The Wilsons, and Their Chances for the Second Place on the Philadelphia Ticket.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The friends of Senator Wilson are daily growing more confident of success at Philadelphia. They claim already that the votes of fourteen States and of over two hundred delegates are secured for him, and expect to secure Texas and Alabama before the end of the week. It is expected, also, that Tennessee will declare for Senator Wilson to-morrow, giving her delegates instructions to cast a complimentary vote for Horace Maynard.

The friends of James F. Wilson, who are assembling in the city, en route to Philadelphia, indicate that their second choice will not be Vice President Colfax.

Mr. Greeley Retires from the Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The Tribune to-morrow publishes the following:

A CARD.—The Tribune has ceased to be a party organ, but the unexpected nomination of its editor at Cincinnati seems to involve it in a new embarrassment. All must be aware that the position of a journalist, who is at the same time a candidate, is, at best, irksome and difficult; that he is fettered in action and restrained in criticism by the knowledge that whatever he may say or do is closely scanned by thousands eager to find in it what may be so interpreted as to annoy or perplex those who are supporting him as a candidate, and to whom his shackled condition will not permit him to be serviceable. The undersigned, therefore, withdraws absolutely from the conduct of the Tribune, and will henceforth, until further notice, exercise no control or supervision over its columns. (Signed) HORACE GREELEY.

MAY, 15, 1872.

The editorial management of the Tribune, of course, falls on Whitelaw Reid, Esq.

New York Democratic State Convention.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 14.—Fully half the delegates to the Democratic State Convention have already arrived, together with many politicians and men of influence in the party. The hotels are crowded. The headquarters of the delegates is the scene of great activity. A glance is sufficient to show that the feeling is very largely in favor of Greeley, Brown, and the Cincinnati platform. Some of the leading men are disposed to avoid a full committal of the Convention to-morrow to the Cincinnati movement. Up to this hour nothing has been agreed on in regard to the action to-morrow, not even as to organization.

Clarkson N. Potter is the only name mentioned in connection with the Presidency of the Convention.

The Virginia Democracy.

NEW YORK, May 14.—A despatch from Richmond, Va., states that the Enquirer contradicts the statement that Governor Walker had pledged the Virginia delegation to the Democratic Convention to support Greeley. Governor Walker made no announcement of any course of action for the Conservatives in advance of the authorized expression of their opinions.

The Connecticut Senatorship.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 13.—Democratic members of the Legislature, in caucus, this evening, at New Haven, nominated O. G. Ferry for Senator.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14.—The coalition to elect Senator Ferry succeeded in the House to-day, and gave him 16 majority. The Senate gave Hawley 7 majority. Ferry's majority, on joint ballot, on Wednesday, will be 9 or 10.

Missouri Democratic State Convention.

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—The Democratic State Central Committee have called a State Convention to be held at Jefferson City, June 12, to appoint a State Central Committee and elect delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

The Virginia Conservatives for Greeley and Brown.

RICHMOND, Va., May 14.—A special despatch to the Despatch from Petersburg says: The largest Conservative meeting in that city since the war was held to-day, and ratified the nominations of Greeley and Brown with great enthusiasm. Speeches were made by Colonel W. E. Cameron, Hon. C. F. Collier, Hon. George Balling, and other prominent Virginians.

Miscellaneous.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The Liberal Republican State Committee to-day adopted measures for organization in all counties on a uniform plan, and appointed an Executive Committee.

NASHVILLE, May 14.—A large number of delegates to the Republican State Convention have arrived. They are representative men of the party, and enthusiastic for Grant.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—A large Greeley-Brown club, the first in the State, organized at Vallejo, with leading citizens as officers.

NEW YORK.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

STOCKS.

NEW YORK, May 14.—On the Stock Exchange to-day the speculative centered in a few stocks, and the general list was neglected. Pacific Mail was again the leading feature, and ranged between 81@87¼. The sharp rise was attributed to the covering of the short contracts and the contest for the election. Panama advanced from 120 to 125½, in sympathy with Pacific Mail. The remainder of the list was generally quiet, and there was a decline of ¼ to 1½ per cent late in the day, chiefly in Erie, Northwestern common, Ohios, Union Pacific, C., C. & I. C., St. Paul common, and Rock Island.

GOLD.

In the Gold Room there was a marked change in the temper of speculation. The price opened at 113¾, and steadily advanced to 114¼. This advance was due to doubts in regard to the supplementary treaty, the continued outflow of gold, and decline in securities at London. The day's shipments of specie were $700,000, and the engagements for to-morrow $750,000. Further amounts will go by steamers sailing later in the week. Advices from the other side state that American securities are dull in Germany, and the people there are overloaded with home securities, such as bank and other shares, floated on the late inflation in London. The Russian Government want a loan for £15,000,000 sterling, and it is reported that the French Government is coming out with a loan for three thousand millions francs to pay off the German indemnity and get rid of the German soldiers. If these loans are consummated there is likely to be an outflow of bullion from the Bank of England, the effect of which will be felt on this side. Gold closed firmer at 114@114¼.

MONEY MARKET

active at 7 per cent until late in the afternoon, when the call loans dropped to 5 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

quiet and firm at 109½ to 109¾ for sixty days' sterling, with most of the business at the inside rate. Some bills drawn by German banks on a London company were sold at 109½.

GOVERNMENTS.

Government bonds closed strong.

PACIFIC RAILROAD SHARES.

Central Pacific bonds closed at 102½@103; Union Pacific firsts, 92½@92¾; land grants, 80½@81; incomes, 87@87½.

BREADSTUFFS.

Flour is in limited demand, and grades under $11 hardly so firm. The trade is disposed to hold off. Prices of very low grades uncertain. At the close the market was weaker, with a moderate demand for low grades. Wheat less active, and common spring easier. Choice is well held. Winter strong but quiet. Choice white wanted. At the close the market was 3@4c lower for spring and common. Dealers hold off and prices are uncertain.

PORK

in limited demand and weak.

[To the Associated Press.]

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

NEW YORK May 14.—In the Methodist General Conference this morning an excited discussion occurred on the motion to alter the rules of trials on appeals, so as to make the words "A Bishop shall preside," read "A Bishop or an officer appointed by the Bishop." Dr. Merritt, of Cincinnati, strongly opposed the motion, and said there seemed to be a growing desire to circumscribe the episcopate. The motion was tabled. A memorial, signed by A. Cranem, and others, of Genesee County, was presented, asking the Conference to take such action as to induce ministers of the Church to withdraw from the unholy and unchristian, idolatrous society of Free Masons. Derisive laughter was provoked by various assertions in the document, and a motion to table it was lost, so that, under the rule, it went to the Committee on the State of the Church. A letter was read from Bishop Janes, announcing his recovery. Bishop Richardson, and other fraternal delegates, from the Canada Methodist Episcopal Church were present. A resolution was passed authorizing the special Committee to call on the agents of the Book Concern for all information desired. Dr. Weld, a delegate from Canada, addressed the Conference, saying the Canadian Methodist Episcopal Church would prefer union with the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States rather than with the other Methodist bodies in Canada, under their present relations with England. He said the Methodist Episcopal Church in Canada is growing more and more favorable to the independence of Church and State—for the non interference of Europe with this Continent, and was politically and religiously growing tired of the interference of England. [Applause.] The address of Dr. Weld, and his colleague, Dr. Benson, were, on motion of Dr. Haven, referred to a Committee of Nine. Adjourned.

RAILROAD LEASE.

The Delaware and Hudson Canal Company has completed arrangements for a perpetual lease of the Rensselaer & Saratoga Railroad.

CLOSED.

The Broad street office of Mesdames Woodhull and Claflin has been closed, it is reported, by the Sheriff.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

The fifty-ninth anniversary of the New York Sunday School Missionary Society was celebrated by a fine procession of children to-day.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

The jury were unable to agree in the case of Madame Freloff, who asks $100,000 damages from the Hudson River Railroad, for loss of baggage. Six award $75,000, three $25,000, and three $1,000. They were discharged.

THE PHELPS MURDER.

Henry Porter, James Bobbins, and William Fitch have been arrested, charged with being of the gang who entered Mr. Phelps' house and assaulted him. James Halleck, who, it is believed, shot Mr. Phelps, was cornered in a tenement-house, but finally escaped from the detectives. The arrests were made on information from thieves arrested on suspicion of the same crime.

CLAFLIN MILITANT.

Tennie C. Claflin, in a letter in the Sun to-morrow, applies for the Coloneley of the Ninth Regiment, protesting it to be wrong to the memory of its dead leader to select, as his successor, any one lacking the magnetic influence he possessed over soldiers. She will accept the position and pledge herself, if elected, to give such impetus to the recruiting that in thirty days the regiment will be the foremost in the State. "There can be no objection," she says, "to me, except that I am a woman, but Joan of Arc was a woman, and, while I don't pretend to her military genius, it has always been my desire to become actively connected with the service in whose rules and tactics I am well versed."

ANOTHER ABORTIONIST.

Dr. George R. Giles, 112 Ninth avenue, was arrested this evening, charged with having caused the death of Mrs. Mary Ann Lowden, a widow residing at 228 Thompson street, by an operation performed for the purpose of producing abortion.

THE MACE-O'BALDWIN FIGHT

is finally fixed for August 15. Mace starts for California to-morrow to train. O'Baldwin trains at Pittsburgh.

MICHIGAN.

The Edmunds' Impeachment Trial.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

LANSING, Mich., May 14.—James Cummin, Treasurer of Shiawassee County, testified to the interposition of Edmunds in favor of Orson Buck, a poor man whose land had been secured.

S. V. Cornell and Deputy State Treasurer Bartholomew testified that the books showed Buck's land to have been sold to Cornell on scrip, and payment charged to Barnard & Co., in which Edmunds is a partner.

Orrin Quigley swore to seeing Edmunds drunk once and drinking repeatedly.

G. H. Cole swore to seeing Edmunds come out of a house of ill-fame early one morning.

F. G. Moore testified that VanDunham had been away from his boarding place about one-third of the time during the four months he was in the office.

Manager Grosvenor moved to receive testimony on the adultery article only before the Secretary of the Senate.

The managers responded, and the motion was denied.

B. B. Baker testified to the receipt of an obscene paper every Wednesday night at the Legislative Post Office.

Carpenter and Wilder, bank clerks in Cyrus Hewitt's bank, testified that the account of William A. Barnard & Co. in that bank was nearly $60,000.

Charles Anderson, a negro waiter; Mr. Taylor, and Mrs. Hudson, testified to suspicious indications of Edmunds' having committed adultery—very weak testimony.

The managers submitted their case, receiving permission to call hereafter an important missing witness.

New York Legislature.

ALBANY, May 14.—The Judiciary Committee has reported in the case of Judge McCunn, recommending that the Governor send his case to the Senate, with the recommendation for his removal. The report was agreed to unanimously.

The Senate refused to go into Committee of the Whole on the Central Underground Railroad bill. It required a two-thirds vote, and this kills it.

The Legislature has adjourned sine die.

FOREIGN.

An Eye-Witness' Account of the Recent Fearful Eruption of Vesuvius.

The Treaty of Washington Discussed in the Canadian Parliament.

ITALY.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The correspondent of the London Telegraph, dating Naples, April 26, writes: "For several nights before the new craters burst, the mountain was so enchanting in its robe of flame that Naples could not think of going to bed. When darkness fell on the night the great cone seemed suddenly to festoon itself with wreaths of fire. From its summit three craters were playing simultaneously. It was past 3 o'clock before I could turn my back on Vesuvius. The next night the cone did not fulfil our eager anticipations. Two of the three craters failed to take part in the spectacle, but the third belched and flashed and smoked with triple energy. On the third night the fire had further diminished in brilliance, but those who were not absorbed could discern indications of an increase of volcanic energy. All through this ill-fated night premonitions of catastrophe followed hard upon each other. What did happen was an incident unprecedented in the treacherous history of Vesuvius. As the day was dawning a fearful horror occurred on the side of the mountain next the city. Of late years access to Vesuvius has been greatly facilitated by a short railway which skirts the bay and connects Naples with Castelamare, a town at the opposite corner. Resina, a favorite point for making the ascent from, enjoys the most exciting distinction of lying in the line of the great current of lava. Thousands of visitors have ascended the hill nightly from Resina, driving up as far as the observatory, and then walking to the bed of last year's lava. On Friday morning many such excursion parties were assembled directly under the cone. They had begun to disperse with the first indications of sunrise, but hundreds still lingered. Without a single movement to warn them, the earth opened under foot, and the dead lava, which they had been treading on as a curiosity, turned again to molten fire. Those who were not engulfed in the chasm as it burst forth, attempted to flee for their lives. Happily the fleet and sure of foot were many. They reached safety; but woe to whoever fell by the way. The earth they fell on was already at furnace heat, and fresh waves of lava overtook them ere they could rise again. A few were miraculously delivered by noble efforts on the part of strong-nerved men. I have been told by a friend who was at the very edge of the chasm when it burst open, that the effect on the imagination was as though the whole mountain had begun to move from its base. A carriage, which happened to be inside this circle, was burnt up in an instant, as if it had been spirited away. Shortly before the eruption a lady was seen in it, but of her nothing whatever has been heard since. Throughout Friday consternation reigned in Naples. The booming of the underground artillery sounded as close as if it were beneath our feet. The flow of lava had increased, and two enormous streams were rolling toward the sea as if they would sweep away half a dozen villages in their course. Windows rattled, and the strongest houses trembled to their foundation. The smoke rising from the crater was mingled with volumes of sulphurous vapor and blackened by ashes it carried in its furious ascent. There was far more danger in scoriæ than in lava, scattering themselves wherever the prevailing winds carried them, which was happily not in the direction of Naples. They became firebrands for the destruction of houses, vineyards, forests, and every form of combustible property. On Friday night Naples was a degree lower in the descent toward abject terror. The Bourse had been closed all day. No one attempted to think of anything but the awful noises under foot and the conflagration, which was spreading among the villages lying at the mercy of the volcano. Poor San Sebastiano was nearly reduced to ashes, and its twelve hundred inhabitants had to seek refuge nearer the coast, whither the lava and ashes were fast following them.

THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

LONDON, May 14.—The journals, this morning, devote much space in their editorial columns, to remarks upon explanations regarding the indirect claims, and the position of the English Government, made in the House of Lords last night by Earl Granville, and in the Commons by Gladstone. The journals approve of the negotiations now pending, but doubt the concurrence in them by the United States.

OTTAWA, Canada, May 14.—The debate on the Washington Treaty bill was resumed yesterday, and continued to the adjournment late at night. The principal speakers were Sir Francis Hincks, and Hon. John H. Cameron, who supported the bill. The debate will be resumed to-day, and a division will probably be taken.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The submission of the new article in the Treaty of Washington is with a view of obtaining the opinion of that body on it, to guide the President in his formal action in the negotiation. In other words, it is before the Senate for ratification. Although there has not been any general expression as to the result, the opinion obtains that the Senate will favorably advise the President in the premises.

ICELAND.

COPENHAGEN, May 14.—A schooner arrived here to-day from Iceland, reports a series of violent earthquake shocks at Haswick on the 16th, 17th, and 18th of April. Twenty houses were destroyed, and several persons injured, but no lives lost.

SPAIN.

NEW YORK, May 14.—A letter from Cadiz states that Dr. Houard suffered considerably on his voyage from being loaded with heavy chains; but, upon the request of the American officials at Cadiz, the chains have been removed. The action of Congress relative to his case had not then reached Dr. Houard, nor the Spanish officials at Cadiz.

MADRID, May 14.—Fifteen thousand Government troops are now concentrated in the Department of Biscay. Opposed to them are 7,000 Carlists, who adopt a Fabian policy. Ugarte, Elio, and Rada, and several other Carlist leaders, who escaped into France, have been arrested and returned by the French authorities.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, May 14.—Her Majesty, the Empress Augusta, of Germany, who has been visiting Queen Victoria for the past two weeks, sailed to-day on her return to Berlin.

Parliament has adjourned for the usual Whitsuntide holiday. The House of Lords will reassemble on the 31st instant, and the House of Commons on the 27th instant.

The report that the United States Senate has rejected the proposed additional article to the Treaty of Washington relative to indirect claims, is current in this city, and has a depressing effect upon the market for American securities.

QUEENSTOWN, May 14.—Arrived, the steamship Spain, from New York.

FRANCE.

PARIS, May 14.—Subscriptions to the amount of 300,000 francs have been raised here for the sufferers by the eruption of Vesuvius.

The Constitutionnel says three more departments will soon be evacuated by the Germans.

Marshal Bazaine was placed under arrest this morning. His trial before a special court martial will begin in a few days.

IOWA.

Brutal and Probably Fatal Assault Upon a Boy.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

DES MOINES, May 14.—A murderous assault was made upon a boy named Bates, 18 years old, in Walnut Township, Dallas County, last Sunday afternoon, by three men named Carter,—father and two sons. Some time since a difficulty rose between the Carter and Bates families. On Sabbath afternoon the three Carters went to the house of Mr. Bates during his absence and commenced abusing his wife. The lad above named stepped between them and his mother and told them to stop abusing his mother, heroically adding that he should defend her to the last. Two of the Carters then seized the boy, holding him down, when the other Carter stabbed him three times with a pruning knife, once in the arm, once in the side, penetrating into the lungs, and once just above the heart. The boy is fearfully injured, and it is not probable that he will recover, although he was alive at noon to-day. On Monday the Carters were arrested, and admitted to bail at $300 each. This morning they were re-arrested, and lodged in jail at Adel. An intense excitement exists in the neighborhood. The Carters have a bad reputation, and have made themselves a terror to society by their lawless violence. Wm. Bates is a hard-working, respectable farmer, and is highly respected as a citizen.

Funeral of T. Buchanan Read.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The funeral of T. Buchanan Read took place this afternoon from the residence of his brother-in-law, James E. Caldwell, of Germantown, and was attended by a large concourse of friends, including persons noted in literature and art. The coffin was covered with wreaths and other floral emblems. The service was read by Rev. Dr. Perry, of Calvary Church, Germantown. The interment took place at Central Laurel Hill. The pall bearers were James L. Claghorn, Henry C. Townsend, A. D. ## MOUNTAIN FIRES.

Immense Damage Done in Ulster County, N. Y.—Wood and Timber Destroyed.

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 14.—The fire in the Shawangunk mountains has burned over a space of two miles in width, destroying 300 cords of wood and an immense quantity of timber. The fire ran from the base to the top of the mountain, and is now burning towards Long Pond. The whole country is as dry as tinder, and the ground so parched that if rain is delayed much longer, the consequences to fruit, grain, and health will be serious.

The Mumford Murder, near Kenosha, Wis.

KENOSHA, Wis., May 14.—The murder of the old man Mumford, near this city, on Sunday night, appears to have been a most mysterious and horrible affair.

A Dane, named Richard Kempkie, who was in the employ of young Mumford, was arrested at Racine, yesterday afternoon, and the watch of the murdered man and $61 in money were found upon his person. He was conveyed to Kenosha, and, while en route, stated to the officers that he was himself innocent, but that he knows the perpetrators of the crime. He had been to Kenosha during the day (Sunday), and, returning home late at night, the dog set up a furious barking, as though he had been greatly disturbed. Kempkie attempted to gain admission to the house by means of the doors, but found all fastened; failing in this, he tried the window of the room occupied by the old gentleman and himself, and, when in the act of raising the same, he declares that he was seized by two persons, one of whom held him by the throat, while the other gave him the watch and ordered him to leave and keep quiet at the peril of his life. He at once departed, and when north of Kenosha, he offered a man five dollars to convey him to Racine. The offer was declined; but, after proceeding a short distance, he obtained passage with a farmer, but to no one did he give an account of what had transpired.

There is no reason to suppose Kempkie's story is untrue—in fact, some of the leading citizens of Kenosha declare their belief in his statement. The prisoner is confined in the County Jail. His preliminary examination will be had to-day, when some rather startling developments are looked for.

The fact that the body of the pedler, supposed to have committed suicide last winter, was found in the immediate vicinity of the scene of this tragedy, lend additional interest to the latter. Up to a short time since, no clue had been obtained of his name, effects, or anything whatever concerning him; but it is believed that before the termination of this affair the authors of that crime,—for enough has transpired to dispel the idea that the man destroyed his own life,—will be known to the world. It appears that Mr. Mumford and his son were brothers-in-law, and resided in Chicago until after the fire, when the old gentleman purchased the farm upon which they were living at the time of his death, and came on here a few weeks ago to reside with his son, the former having separated from his wife. The young man is represented to be about 24 years of age, while his wife is some twelve years his senior. The latter has been on bad terms with her father-brother-in-law, for a long time, it is said by the neighbors, and that there have been many threats exchanged on both sides, while the feud has been kept fresh by frequent quarrels.

A sister of Mrs. Mumford was occupying the same room with the latter and her husband. She states that she thinks she heard the Dane enter the house during the night, but no unusual noises or disturbance took place. The son and his family occupied rooms on the first floor, quite near to that of the old gentleman.

Annual Session of the State Homœopathic Association—Convention of the Illinois Dentists.

Interesting Papers and Discussions on Psychological Medicine, Climatology, Infantile Convulsions, Etc.

Mechanical Dentistry—Qualifications of Practitioners—The Use and Abuse of Rubber by the Profession.

The Illinois Homœopathic Medical Association began its Eighteenth Annual Session at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, in the Common Council Chamber. The President, Dr. G. M. McAffee, of Mount Carroll, called the meeting to order, and Dr. J. S. Mitchell, Recording Secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting, and they were adopted.

Dr. J. C. Duncan, Corresponding Secretary, read a number of letters from physicians who could not attend.

Drs. Davies and Danforth were made a Committee to prepare resolutions relative to the death of Dr. M. W. Coe.

INVITATIONS.

The Association accepted an invitation to be present at the laying of the corner-stone of Scammon Hospital on Cottage Grove avenue, near Twenty-ninth street, at noon on Thursday next, and another requesting them to visit the Nursery and Half Orphan Asylum, corner of North Halsted and Centre streets.

Several Committees presented reports.

THE ANNUAL ADDRESS.

The President delivered the annual address, which was very interesting to the profession, which was ordered to be printed, and for which he received an unanimous vote of thanks.

The Board of Censors was filled by the election of Dr. O. H. Mann and Dr. S. P. Hedges to vacancies.

Dr. G. B. Nichols, of Montpelier, Vt.; Dr. H. Pearce, of Green Bay, Wis., and Dr. G. H. Carr, of Michigan, were voted the courtesy of the floor.

The meeting adjourned until 2:30 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session began at 2:30.

OBSTETRICS.

Dr. J. Anlis, of Morris, read a paper entitled "Psychological Impressions on Fœtal Development." He held generally that the mental condition of the mother affected her inborn offspring, and, after birth the child's health, both of mind and body, depended in a great measure on the milk imbibed from the breast. He gave numerous instances of ante-natal deformity, both physical and moral, bequeathed by the mother while in gestation. He believed that the character of men was in a great measure formed before they were born. He advocated the formation of schools of obstetrics, where women might study and become conversant with the psychological laws that regulated the maternal state.

Dr. Duncan held that mothers could make their children just what they pleased, mentally. Physicians should give advice to mothers. The character of the coming generation might be largely influenced thereby.

Dr. Hale and others continued the discussion.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION.

Dr. G. M. P. Ludlam, Treasurer, in making his report, called the attention of members to the fact that they could not continue in active connection with the Society, unless they complied with the by-laws requiring them not to be in arrears over one year. The number of members entered on the Treasurer's books was 144; the number entitled to vote, 22; the amount due by members was $1,804; the cash on hand at the close of last session was $202.60; there was received from members during the year, $14, making a total of $216.60; the expenses for the year footed up $88.75, leaving a balance of $127.85.

The report was referred to an Auditing Committee, composed of Doctors Pratt, Foot, and Hale.

PSYCHOLOGICAL NEWS.

Dr. Duncan, of Chicago, delivered an essay on "Psychological Medicine." The paper illustrated the great influence of the mind on the body, and cited authority to prove that many more cases would recover if patients would will to get well. The modus operandi was scientifically explained. In the treatment of the insane, the use of sedatives, such as bromide of potassium and hydrate of chloral, were denounced, as often making a solitude, and calling it peace. The direct connection between the brain and other organs was next illustrated. The cause of right or left handedness was due, he believed, to an extra development of the left or the right hemisphere of the brain. Two new remedies were presented as affecting the mind. They were datura arborea and tarantula hispanica. The paper closed with illustrations of a dynamograph, an instrument for registrating muscular tension.

AN IODINE CASE.

Dr. Merriman, of Aledo, reported a case of "aggravation from iodine," which was taken into consideration.

CLIMATOLOGY.

Dr. Pierce, of Green Bay, Wis., treated of "Climatology," which, he said, was fast becoming a power in the hands of men who made it a study. Climate had an influence on disease, and given a certain state of the thermometer, barometer, and hygrometer, the nature of the disease likely to follow could be predicted with some degree of exactness. Observation, continued for years, enabled him to foretell the kind of disease he would be likely to meet in his practice in Northern Wisconsin. He trusted every physician would keep a record of the temperature and climate in his locality, and forward it to the Chairman of the Committee on Climatology.

SUDDEN CARDIAC FAILURE.

Dr. E. M. Hale, of Chicago, spoke of the "Etiology of Sudden Cardiac Failure." He said that all sudden deaths were attributed to heart disease, often without proper investigation. That was a subterfuge of ignorance in no way creditable to the profession, injurious to the community, and painfully affecting the peace of mind, and perhaps the health, of relatives of the deceased, who might be led to imagine that the disease was in the family. In speaking of the various affections of the heart, he alluded to "rupture," which was literally "breaking of the heart." Of thirty-four cases of rupture noticed by a physician, the victims all died while in a state of repose. Physicians should not, without full investigation, ascribe sudden deaths to heart disease, and the constituted authorities should not receive reports of sudden deaths based upon conjecture. In reply to a question he stated that the proportion of sudden deaths from heart disease, to those from other causes, were as 3 to 10; three from heart disease to ten from other causes, such as internal hemorrhage, congestion of the brain, and so forth.

On motion of Dr. Mitchell, the resolution requiring papers to lie over one day before being discussed, was rescinded and the paper taken up and debated.

Dr. Mitchell agreed generally with the views of Dr. Hale, and cited cases that came under his observation.

RUBBER LIGATURE.

Dr. W. H. Burt, of Chicago, told how "Rubber Ligature" should be used, the information being purely technical.

INFANTILE CONVULSIONS.

Dr. F. H. Van Liew, of Aurora, read an article on "Diseases of Children," speaking mostly of spasms and convulsions, their causes and remedies. He denounced "vile nursing bottles with rubber nipples." A child would eat up one of those rubbers in six weeks, so that economical parents now bought them by the dozen. The necessity of children being supplied with God's stimulating fresh air and light was inculcated. Modern babies were hot-house plants, weak and delicate, instead of being hardy and of vigorous growth.

Dr. Small said he never found two cases of convulsions in children exactly alike, or amenable to the same treatment. He seldom used a high "attenuation," ranging between the third and twelfth.

Drs. Pratt, McLaren, and Merriman related their experience.

A STRANGE CASE.

Dr. Mitchell said he was now treating a curious case of convulsions in a child 11 months old, caused by an inordinate use of tobacco. The wet nurse who had charge of the child was in the habit of rolling a cigar in linen and sucking it until all the juice was extracted. Whether she expectorated or swallowed the juice he could not say. She was also in the habit of getting drunk. When her habits became known she was discharged. There was no doubt that the convulsions were the result of tobacco. He found a remedy in belladonna in the third dilution. The child was now progressing nicely.

IN MEMORIAM.

Dr. Pierce read a set of resolutions eulogizing the character and lamenting the death of Dr. George W. Perrine, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Dr. Small and Dr. R. Ludlam spoke in feeling language of the memory and virtues of the deceased.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

MEDICAL EDUCATION.

Dr. A. E. Small, of Chicago, addressed the meeting on "Medical Education." He said that in future time of study would not be a sine qua non, as a rule had been adopted by which students sufficiently advanced could enter any class in Hahnemann College for which they were qualified, all of course being subject to a severe final examination.

Dr. Pierce thought the time had come when education should be a test of fitness for matriculation. Their motto should be "Excelsior in education." He objected to students going through one or two courses of lectures and then starting business in some town as full fledged physicians, and advertising themselves as peculiarly fitted to treat special diseases. They should raise the standard.

Dr. Pratt believed in ejecting from the profession at the start men who were not fitted for it.

Dr. Ludlam considered the besetting sin of young students to be a desire to get into practice. They should be grounded in medicine and collateral branches before they got a taste of practice. The fault was with the preceptors. He suggested that students be compelled to sign a contract to remain with their preceptors for four years before they begin to practice. By putting an end to half-fledged doctors they would elevate the character of the profession.

An invitation from Dr. George E. Shipman, requesting the Association to visit the Foundling's Home, was accepted, and 12 o'clock to-day appointed as the time.

The meeting then adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

The Dentists.

The eighth annual meeting of the Illinois State Dental Society convened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, at the Plymouth Congregational Church, at the corner of Eldridge court and Wabash avenue, O. O. Wilson, of Aurora, President, in the chair. Proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Thomas.

RESIGNATION.

The President then read a communication from C. Stoddard Smith, of Springfield, Secretary for the past three years, resigning his position, and expressing great satisfaction with the progress made by the Society during his official connection with it. Resignation accepted, and Dr. Koch, of Chicago, appointed Secretary pro tem.

THE DELEGATES.

On the calling of the roll the following members were found to be present: Geo. H. Cushing, Chicago; G. O. Howard, Galena; C. R. E. Koch, Chicago; E. F. Davis, Galesburg; O. O. Wilson, Aurora; W. S. Richey, Elmwood; Geo. H. Harrington, Delevan; K. B. Davis, Petersburg; R. C. Sicke, Kewanee; A. R. Matteson, C. A. Kitchen, Quincy; R. Mathews, C. O. Dean, Mt. Carroll; A. C. Schadle and S. Y. Black, Jacksonville; J. L. Edwards, Griggsville; C. W. Rivers, Pittsfield; C. K. Sawyer, Jacksonville; Chas. Henry, Jacksonville; M. S. Dean, Chicago; C. Stoddard Smith, Springfield; E. H. Kilbourne, Aurora; R. Mathews, Young America; J. W. Hendel, Peoria; A. R. Matteson, Kewanee; E. Honsinger, Chicago; L. M. Sturgis, Quincy; Warren De Crow, Quincy; Jesse W. Cornelius, Freeport; Geo. P. Kingsley, Freeport; A. C. Schadle, Warren; H. H. Townsend, Pontiac; E. D. Swain, Chicago.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

President Wilson then delivered a very able and instructive address, containing some valuable and interesting statistics. The Illinois Society contains 117 members, and is the largest local society of the kind in the world. In 1820 there were only 100 dentists in the United States. There are now no less than 10,000, with an average net income of $1,500 each. There are twelve dental colleges in the country, and half a dozen journals devoted exclusively to this science. Societies are springing into existence everywhere, and the State of New York has even been divided into dental districts.

REINSTATEMENTS.

After the conclusion of the address it was moved and seconded that all members who are in arrears, and have not acted with the Society for some time past, may become reinstated by paying up their dues. Referred to a Committee.

APPLICATIONS.

Applications for membership were received from the following members of the profession and referred to the Appropriate Committee: H. S. Schofield, of Prairie City; A. W. Harlan and J. B. Bell, of Chicago; N. E. Babcock and E. T. House, of Rockford; C. T. Matteson, of Macomb; W. H. Mills and David Burrall, of Freeport; F. L. Gilmore, of Waverley; J. A. Davis, Mason City; J. G. Hyer, Clinton; J. F. Morriner, Ottawa; and C. B. Rising, of Rockford.

GOODYEAR.

In view of a recent legal decision in the case of the Goodyear Dental Vulcanite Company against certain members of the dental profession, a resolution was introduced counselling cheerful submission to the decree of the Court. Laid on the table.

Dr. Allport was invited to the stand, and made a few remarks.

The Convention then adjourned until 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention reassembled at half-past 2, the President in the chair.

ETHICS.

The special Committee on a Code of Ethics, reported, recommending the adoption of the code of the Chicago City Association, with the exception of the last clause.

The report was accepted and adopted.

NEW MEMBERS.

The Executive Committee reported favorably on the applications for membership presented at the morning session, and they were elected.

MECHANICAL DENTISTRY.

Dr. E. D. Swain, of Chicago, then read a paper upon mechanical dentistry. He set forth the qualifications of a successful practitioner in that branch,—his knowledge of chemistry, physiology, etc.,—and insisted that, besides all those, he must have certain artistic tastes, and work upon a set of teeth as a painter would upon a picture. The materials used were briefly described and an opinion expressed against vulcanite. As a material for taking casts he rather preferred gutta percha. The manner of taking dies and counter-dies was described, after which he referred to the manner of retaining artificial teeth in the mouth, especially by the use of clasps. He was not in favor of making mechanical dentistry a specialty in order to elevate it, but wanted it generally cultivated by all dentists.

A general discussion on this paper then followed.

Dr. Kilbourn, of Aurora, also expressed himself in favor of the use of clasps for attaching teeth, if proper care was taken.

Dr. Crouse had regretted to see any move toward a compromise with the rubber men, for they could get along very well without rubber, and it was certainly better for the patients. It had been used from sheer laziness, and he was glad the Rubber Company had won their suit. There never was such a curse as the use of rubber, and, therefore, he hoped the workers in metal would give their experience.

Dr. Edwards was also opposed to any rubber compromise, not regarding it a substance fit to be put in the mouth. He had made one rubber plate only in a year and a half. As for clasps, his experience had been against them.

Dr. Cornelius had known of no trouble with clasps where they were well adapted. The great trouble was that people did not keep their teeth clean.

Dr. Sherwood had been unfortunate in the use of clasps, and greatly preferred atmospheric pressure plates. He regretted his resolutions had been misunderstood. He thought rubber as adapted to teeth had been of use to millions, by enabling them to have artificial teeth. It would be an error to try to put down rubber by such arguments, for no article had given more general satisfaction. He hoped they might find a better material, but he did not want this one cast aside at once. He thought it better than gold plates, and would stand by it.

Dr. Honsinger did not believe that rubber was a curse, but thought it a great blessing for those who had not the means to get gold. It was easier to fit the mouth than with a gold plate. He knew of but one case of injury from using rubber in the mouth. For partial sets, he preferred gold. As for clasps some teeth would wear them without injury.

Dr. Sturgess of Quincy also spoke on the subject of clasps, etc. He knew of no better metal than gold as a substitute for rubber.

Dr. Swain said they had had some hopes of aluminum, but it did not seem to answer well, except when the metal had been very carefully refined. He knew a case where the use of rubber had produced salivation.

Dr. G. Kilburn had used aluminum, but the plates rapidly became full of holes. If purified however, he did not know but what it would be the best thing for a cheap plate. He believed rubber kept the mouth feverish and hot. He had had cases of injury from rubber.

Dr. Rising, of Rockford, thought there were so few cases of that kind that it was not fair to condemn rubber. He thought it both a curse and blessing, since it led people to let their teeth go to wreck since they could easily replace them, but a blessing since it enabled people who could not afford a gold plate to have artificial teeth. It would not do to lay aside rubber, since the Court had sustained a certain patent. He thought celluloid might take the place of rubber. A little more hardness would make it superior to rubber. That had no effect at all upon the mouth. He described the manner of using celluloid to make casts. He charged the same as for rubber.

The President had noticed the holes in aluminum plates.

Dr. Dean had tried aluminum plates very little, but gave an explanation of the reasons for the failure of the plates.

Dr. Ritchie had found aluminum plates to prove porous and full of holes.

Dr. Davis was opposed to rubber, since it gave employment to many dentists, who, not being able to fill teeth, always recommended removal, in order to put in rubber. If they had no cheap substitutes, these poor dentists would be thrown out of occupation. Many who were able to pay for filling would have the teeth put in, if it cost less.

CLINICS.

The Committee on Clinics reported in favor of holding them at White's Dental Depot. There was good light and plenty of chairs. If held, they must take half a day for them.

Dr. Ducrot moved they have clinics to-morrow morning and meet at 2 in the afternoon.

The operators for the clinic were appointed, after which the Convention adjourned.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Special Meeting Last Evening—Election of President and Vice President.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening in the Board rooms in the High School building, President Runyan in the Chair. There were present Inspectors King, Calkins, Bonfield, Walsh, Goggin, Reynolds, Richberg, Briggs, Moore, Wuensche, Tyler, Schaffner, Clark, Sheldon, and Hambleton.

The certificates of election of Inspectors Wm. H. King for the Third Ward, John Bonfield for the Sixth Ward, and Edwin H. Sheldon for the Nineteenth Ward, were received and placed on file, and the newly-elect appropriately received into the Board.

Several members of the Board being absent, on motion of Inspector Clark, the Board took a recess of ten minutes before proceeding with the annual election of officers.

The Board having resumed business, Inspector Moore nominated E. F. Runyan as President of the Board.

Inspector Richberg nominated W. H. King for the same position.

Inspector Briggs nominated A. Moore.

Inspectors Moore and King both declined.

The result of the first ballot stood: For E. F. Runyan, 9; for W. H. King, 4; and for A. Moore, 2.

The question arose as to whether a majority of the votes of the Board were required to elect a President. It was decided that a majority of the votes cast were sufficient to elect, and the election was, on motion, made unanimous.

Inspector Walsh was unanimously re-elected Vice President.

Miss Maggie Hardine was nominated for Assistant Clerk of the Board, and, having received 15 votes, was declared duly re-elected.

For Building and Supply Agent, the present incumbent, Mr. James Ward, was nominated and unanimously re-elected.

The Board then adjourned.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN.

Meeting of the Benevolent Association Last Evening.

The annual meeting of the Volunteer Firemen's Benevolent Association was held last evening, in the office of the Tax Commissioner, City Hall building. President John L. Gerber occupied the chair.

The Secretary, D. J. Sweenie, read his annual report, which showed that the relatives of 23 deceased members had been afforded relief during the year, and 38 members, who had lost their homes in the October fire, had been granted assistance. The members who had died during the year were Chief Marshal U. P. Harris, Captain M. Gleason, P. Powers, and John T. Edwards. The Treasurer's report to the Board of Trustees states that after paying orders drawn for fire and ordinary relief, assets of $21,871.42 remain, without counting in the Rosehill monument property. The Secretary also called attention to the badges, 170 of which have been manufactured out of the bell-metal, shaped like the frontispiece of a fireman's hat, with the words "Volunteer Firemen's Benevolent Association, Chicago," and a place for the initials of the wearer, engraved upon it.

The report was accepted, and ordered placed on file.

The Association then proceeded to elect a Board of Trustees, four of which shall serve five years, and one the unexpired term of U. P. Harris. The following gentlemen were chosen: D. J. Sweenie, T. B. Courtney, P. A. Brogg, P. J. Gross. Lorenz Walter was elected to fill the unexpired term of U. P. Harris.

The meeting then adjourned until next Monday evening, when officers for the coming year will be elected.

A New Idea.

Messrs. Davis & Re Qua, one of our leading insurance agencies, have just done an excellent thing by putting in their large window at No. 164 LaSalle street, a splendid clock, plainly seen, and giving correct time to all. This is, probably, intended to signify the promptness with which this agency came to time after the fire and paid a hundred cents on the dollar on all their losses. The location selected by them, having become the centre of the insurance business, their clock will be of use to all who want good insurance or correct time.

MONETARY.

TUESDAY EVENING, May 14.

The most prominent feature in the local markets to-day was the tumble in wheat, which declined about 8 cents per bushel. The cause of the decline was the failure of Eastern markets to respond to the bulling of the speculators here, and a consequent nervous disposition to realize the advance made during the last few weeks.

Inquiry at the banks shows no symptoms yet of any demand from the country banks for currency to move grain, and, as this would probably be the first indication of increased receipts of grain, it is not probable that the stock of grain in store here will be increased much for a week or two yet.

New York exchange was in better supply than it was yesterday, but is comparatively scarce yet, and sells between banks at 50c per $1,000 premium. At the counter bankers sell at 1-10 premium and buy at par.

Money continues easy in this market. There seems also to be something of an influx of money in the form of currency in the New York market, and railway stocks are consequently firmer.

Sterling exchange continues high: 110½ for sight bills. This price warrants the shipment of specie, and keeps up the price of gold, which closed to-day at 114.

CHANGES OF NAMES.

The National Loan & Trust Company is about to change its name to the "Bank of Chicago," and has leased ground for a permanent office on the northwest corner of LaSalle and Randolph streets. The Real Estate Loan & Trust Company has changed its name to the "Franklin Bank."

THE SCANDINAVIAN BANK,

whose advertisement will be found on another page, has now become permanently located in the Nixon Building on the corner of LaSalle and Monroe streets. The capital of the bank is $130,000. Its President, Mr. Winslow, and its Cashier, Mr. Siller, have been favorably known in connection with the banking business in this city for many years. The Directors are also well known throughout the surrounding country as men of capital and conservative business habits.

LATEST.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Gold has been strong, on the sensational rumor of uncertainty as to the action of Congress on the supplementary treaty: opening at 113¾ and closing at 114@114⅛. Loans were from 2 to 4 per cent for carrying, and later, 1-16@1-64 for use. Clearings, $6,000,000; exports to-day, $700,000; engagements for to-morrow, $750,000; Treasury disbursements, $775,000.

Governments strong at the close.

Stocks active, with large transactions, the most noticeable feature being the rapid advance in Pacific Mail, in which, as in all active stocks, the short interest is very large. The sharp rise is attributed to the partial covering of shorts, and the contest for the election. Panama sold up to 123¾. Ohios were next in activity. The remainder of the list was dull and steady until near the close, when stocks became heavy and sold off from ½ to ¾ per cent compared with the opening prices. The market closed dull.

Money more active in the morning at 6@7, but before the close of bank hours was offered at 5.

In State bonds Tennessees and Missouris were strong and active; others dull.

Herkimer County Dairy Market.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., May 11.—The market has been active this week, and prices sufficiently low to make it an object for shippers to take hold. The quality, of course, is inferior, as the herds have not yet come to grass, and the comparatively high rates for butter make it an object for dairymen to skim deeply. And, although this poor, "lean stuff" augurs well for the future that having a clean market is going out of the country, day growing finer and more meaty in texture. The delivery of farm dairies was not far from [illegible] boxes, and prices ran from [illegible], while well-cured lots, with a liberal proportion of cream, went at 12½c, and extra [illegible]. A large number of factorymen were in the market, and the transactions have reached about 2,000 boxes. We give quotations of sales from leading factories, which will show the tone of the market:

Snell's Buzle, 13½c; Top Notch, 13c; P. Sharp, 13c; Norway Association, 13c; Norway, 13c; Newport, 13½c; Newville, 13½c; Middleville, 13½c; Manheim, 13½c; Kaya, 13½c; Ives, 13c; Herkimer County Central, the skimmed at 10c, the rest at 13c; North Fairfield, 13½c; Crain's Corners, 13½c; Dairy Valley, 13½c; Danube Cold Spring, 13c; Columbia Centre, 13½c; Old Fairfield, 13½c; Countryman, 13½c; Eatonville, 13½c; A. Smith & Co., 13c; J. D. Ives, 13c; LaDueville, 13½c.

About 260 tubs of butter were delivered this week, and sales were made at 25@27c, according to quality. Fancy butter is worth a little more money.

At the Utica market, prices have run a shade lower than at Little Falls—only one factory, that of L. L. Wright, giving as high as 13½c.

There is a little better feeling in the market at the close of the week, and a trifle better rates are anticipated for next week's delivery. The weather is warm and dry. We need a good, long, soaking rain, and then the grass would start, so that we could get the herds to pasture and to a good "nip of grass." F. H. W.

The produce markets in this city were generally more active to-day, but lower, many of them being very weak, in sympathy with wheat, which seems to be the bell-wether of the flock. The reported shipments of corn, oats, and meats, were again large, and the receipts were rather below the average, while other markets were strong till forced down later by the weakness here, which was simply a reaction from the over-strained excitement of the week preceding. There was a quieter feeling in the grocery market, but no "softening" in prices. On the contrary, staple articles were generally firmer; coffees, refined sugars and teas were stronger, prices having recently advanced a little at the East. Rice, syrups, soaps, and other articles in the list were quoted steady. The dry goods trade was quiet, with prices steady, as previously quoted. Butter was in light demand only and the general market was weak and unsettled. Some choice packed sold at 26@27c, in a small way, but these were considered extreme figures, the bulk of the sales being at prices ranging downward from 23c. Bagging remains steady and firm at 39c for Stark; 37c for Lewiston, and at 35c for Royal River. The coal market continues dull and weak. There was little or nothing doing at the yards, and prices are simply nominal at $11.00 for Lehigh; $9.50@10.00 for Lackawanna, and $9.50 for Erie. Cheese was quoted quiet and weak. A fair business was doing in the fish and fruit markets, and former rates were being realized. Hay was fairly active, and firm for pressed descriptions, the supply of which is hardly equal to the demand. Hides and leather remain steady and unchanged. Oils were active. A slight reduction in extra lard oil was the only quotable change. Paints and colors are meeting with a large demand, at full prices. Business at the lumber yards to-day was better than for some time back, and as the supply of desirable grades is not heavy, prices tend upward. Common descriptions are moving off quite freely at unchanged prices. Shingles and lath were firm. The demand for hard wood lumber continues of a fair character, and in view of the fact that the daily receipts are small, dealers experience no trouble in realizing former quotations. In the market for metals and tinners' stock and nails trade continues to exhibit a good degree of activity, and few changes are noticeable in our price-list. Iron and steel were again in fair demand, and firm. The wool market remains in substantially the same condition as last noted. The aggregate inquiry is small, and a weak feeling prevails. Building materials were again active, and held firm at unchanged quotations. The potato market was less active, and as the supply is large, prices tend downward. Eggs sold to a light extent at 11½@12c per doz for common to choice packages.

Highwines were again stronger, advancing another ½c per gallon, under a fair order demand with light offerings. Sale was made early of 100 brls at 84c; and later of 100 brls at 84½c. The market closed at the outside.

Lake freights were more active and irregular. The inquiry was principally for corn to Kingston, for which 14c was the ruling rate, as yesterday. Buffalo rate on corn was held at 8c, but only 7½c was bid, vessels not being wanted for that port. Other rates were quoted as follows: 8½c for wheat to do, and corn to Port Colborne: 12½c on corn to Oswego; 14½c on corn to Ogdensburgh; 6c on oats to Buffalo; corn by steam to Buffalo, 9c. Through rates were quoted at 25c on corn to New York; and 28c on corn to Portland and Boston. A total of 9 charters from this port was reported, which will carry out 169,000 bu corn, and 26,000 bu oats.

Provisions were quiet, but with rather more doing than yesterday. Mess pork opened steady, but again declined some 20c per brl, and closed dull. Lard was steady, being in light request, but firm, owing to the fact of small offerings. Meats were dull and unchanged. The weakness was partially in sympathy with a decline in live hogs at the Stock Yards, and partially in sympathy with wheat. The market closed at the following range of quotations: Mess pork, cash, or seller May, $12.50@12.55; do seller June, $12.55@12.60; do seller July, $12.80@12.85; seller August nominal at $13.20; seller November nominal at $12.50; do seller December, nominal at $13.00; prime mess, $11.50. Lard, cash or seller May, $8.85; do seller June, $8.90; do seller July, $8.95@9.00. Summer lard, $8.25. Dry salted meats 4½c for shoulders; 6½@6⅝c for short ribs, and 7c for short clear. Boxed meats, ½@⅝c higher than the above quotations for loose. Sweet pickled hams, 8@9c, according to weight. Bacon quoted at 5½c for shoulders; 7½@7¾c for short ribs; 8c for clear; 11@11½c for hams, all packed. Mess beef, $9.00; extra mess beef, $10.00. Beef hams, $24.00@25.00. City tallow, 8¼@8½c. Sales were reported of 40 brls mess pork at $12.75; 500 brls do, seller June, at $12.75; 500 brls do at $12.70; 1,000 brls do at [illegible]; 500 tcs lard at $8.85; 100 tcs summer lard at $8.25; 50 tcs do at $7.87½, and 50 tcs do at $7.75, both loose; 1,250 tcs, seller June, at $8.90; 750 tcs do, in Peoria, seller last week in May, at $8.75; 20,000 lbs short ribs at 6½c.

Flour was very quiet, buyers holding off on account of the weakness in wheat, but holders insisted on the full quotations reached in the recent advance. Hence but little agreement, especially as New York was reported dull and easier. Bran was weak at a decline of $1.00 per ton. Sales were reported of 50 brls white winter extras at $8.50; 100 brls spring extras (Big Loaf) at $8.50; 200 brls do (Lockport Hydraulic) at $8.25; 250 brls do (Snow Flake) at $7.87½; 50 brls spring superfines at $5.75; 100 brls do at $5.25. Total, 750 brls. Also 20 tons bran at $16.50 on track; 10 tons do at $16.00; 10 tons do on through cars at $17.25; 400 brls corn meal at $2.75 delivered, and 10 tons feed at $21.00.

Wheat averaged 8½c lower, and ruled weak, though Liverpool was again reported stronger, with continued bad weather, and poor crop prospects. The continued weakness was owing to the operation of the causes noted yesterday,—the prevalent desire to sell out, under the impression that the top notch has been reached. Some there were, however, who professed to regard the drop as merely the result of a ruse on the part of those controlling the market, to induce the selling of another line of shorts, on which they can again squeeze out a handsome profit. It was noted as singular that the recent sharp advance has brought out no more wheat, our receipts scarcely averaging more than 16,000 bu per day; but, against this, the fact remains that our shipments show but about the same figures, giving no material diminution of our stocks in store. The decrease last week was but 37,383 bu, at which rate our stocks will not be exhausted by the time the new wheat begins to come in. And more than two-thirds of the wheat shipped out last week went by rail, to interior points; there is only a margin of loss in shipping it to New York. There is little doubt in the minds of most operators but that wheat is worth more than the prices at which it sold last winter; but many of them are afraid that it has been forced up higher here than New York and Liverpool can be induced to follow; hence weakness, the moment that the pressure from the short interest is removed. Seller June opened this morning at $1.53, fell to 1.49½, improved to $1.54 when Liverpool was quoted higher; fell to $1.47 when the second Liverpool despatch quoted that market as lower, and closed dull, being 9½c per bu lower than 24 hours previously. Seller the month sold early at $1.52@1.52½, but closed nominal at $1.45; seller July sold at $1.47@1.54, and seller August at $1.38@1.42, both closing at the inside. Seller the year was offered at $1.24. Other grades than No. 2 spring were unmentioned. Cash sales were reported of 7,400 bu No. 2 spring at $1.52½; 5,000 bu do at $1.52¼; 34,800 bu do at $1.52; 16,600 bu do at $1.51½; 14,000 bu do at $1.51¼; 10,000 bu do at $1.51; 16,000 bu do at $1.50½; 10,000 bu do at $1.50¼; 25,000 bu do at $1.50; 400 bu by sample at $1.60. Total, 178,200 bu.

Corn was fairly active, though less so than yesterday, and weak, in sympathy with wheat,—the average of prices being fully ½c per bu lower, declining 1c from the lowest figures of yesterday. The market sympathized with wheat. A great many orders for corn were here yesterday, from Ohio and other States, which were withdrawn to-day, when the principals had received the news of the weakness in wheat yesterday. Meanwhile the offerings for future delivery from country holders were undiminished, and rather increased as buyers fell off, especially when New York was quoted 2c per bu lower, and dull at the decline. Seller June opened at 47½c, improved to 48c, and dropped to 46½c at the close. Seller the month, or regular No. 2, closed at 45½c. Seller July sold at 47¾@49½c, and seller August at 49@50½c, all closing with buyers at the inside. Cash sales were reported of 2,000 bu No. 2 at 47½c; 1,200 bu do at 47¼c; 20,000 bu do at 47c; 8,000 bu do at 47⅛c; 10,000 bu do at 46½c; 75,000 bu do at 46¼c; 1,200 bu do at 46⅛c; 40,800 bu do at 46c; 20,000 bu do at 46c; 20,000 bu do at 45½c; 15,000 bu do at 45¾c; 5,600 bu do at 48½c afloat; 2,400 bu rejected at 44c; 2,400 bu do at 43½c; 4,000 bu do at 43½c; 2,000 bu do at 43c; 1,200 bu on track at 45c. Total, 217,500 bu.

Oats were more active, but declined ½@1c in sympathy with wheat and corn. New York was stronger early, but fell off later. In this market seller June opened at 39½c and declined to 39c at the close. Seller the month sold at 38@38½c, and seller July at 40@40¼c, both closing at the inside. Cash sales were reported of 13,600 bu at 38½c; 5,000 bu at 38¼c, 104,000 bu at 38½c; 5,000 bu at 38¾c; 3,000 bu at 38c; 1,200 bu rejected at 34½c; 600 bu by sample at 42½c; 600 bu do at 41½c, both delivered. Total, 133,000 bu.

Rye was very weak, declining 7c per bu below the lowest figures of yesterday; sales being made of 6,600 bu No. 2 at 84c. At the close the market was somewhat firmer, being quoted at 86c. Other grades were lifeless.

Barley was equally weak with rye, but can scarcely be quoted. There were sellers of No. 2, seller the month, at 64c, with no one bidding over 60c. A sale was made early of 400 bu No. 2 in the Central Elevator at 70c, and 400 bu No. 3 at 50c.

The export business on the whole has been very fair. In some articles an unusually free movement has been noted, more particularly in corn, bacon, and lard.

REVIEW OF THE CHICAGO DAILY MARKET.

TUESDAY EVENING, May 14.

BUTTER—During the past week a quieter and easier feeling has prevailed in this market. Neither the local nor shipping demands have been very considerable, and, under steadily increasing receipts, prices have eased off 1@2c ₱ ℔ on all descriptions. Choice packed dairy is the only grade for which the market exhibits any strength, the light supply of such helping to sustain prices. There is some inquiry for medium to fair quality for shipment South, and up the lakes, but the offerings exceed all demands, and a further decline is imminent. We quote: Strictly choice dairy, packed, at 25@27c; fair to choice tub and firkin, 16@21c; inferior to common grades, 7@14c.

BAGGING—The bagging market presents substantially the same features as noted in our reports from day to day for the past fortnight or more. The demand, as is usually the case at this season of the year, is only fair, but the moderate character of the stocks and the firm tone of the market for the raw material, induces a confident feeling, and former prices are thoroughly sustained. We quote: Stark, 39c; Grahamton, 37½c; Philadelphia, 37c; Ludlow, 37c; Lewiston, 37c; American, 35c; Royal River, 35c; burlaps bags, 21@22½c; gunnies, single, 19@20½c; do double, 28½c; wool sacks 70c.

BUILDING MATERIALS—There are few features to note in connection with this market. Trade during the past week was active, and prices were almost invariably well sustained. We continue to quote: Stucco, $2.75@2.85; New York stucco, casting, $3.75@4.00; superfine do, $4.00@4.25; cement, $1.75; Rosendale cement, $3.00@3.25; marble dust, $3.50; lime in bulk, $1.25; white sand ₱ brl, $3.00@3.25; plastering hair ₱ bu, 35@40c; fire brick ₱ 1,000, $40.00@50.00; building brick, $12.00@15.00; fire clay, $4.00@5.00 ₱ brl. The following are the ruling prices for domestic window glass:

| Tuesday | .... | .... | .... |

CATTLE—The cattle trade opened active this morning, with prices firm at the slight advance gained yesterday, but toward noon, as it became evident that the receipts would nearly reach 5,000 head, buyers grew more cautious and the market weakened sensibly. To add to the depression, there were discouraging advices from the East, and by mid-day there were no buyers save at 10@15c "off" from yesterday's prices. The offerings, though a fair average, fell considerably below those of yesterday in point of quality, and we find the major portion to have sold at prices ranging from $5.90 downward to $5.00. The highest figure obtained was $6.40—for a choice lot averaging 1,437 ℔s—and the lowest, $3.00, for bulls, stags, and scrawny cows. Stockers met with some inquiry at prices not materially lower than prevailed last week, but all other descriptions suffered a decline to the extent mentioned above. The market closed dull and heavy with many unsold, and, as large receipts are anticipated for to-morrow, a further depreciation may reasonably be looked for.

HOGS—The supply was not unusually large, but lower prices at the East checked the movement of shippers, and the market ruled dull and weak throughout, closing 5c lower than yesterday. Sales were reported at $3.75@3.85 for common, uneven, coarse, and mixed lots; at $3.90@4.00 for medium to fair; and at $4.05@4.10 for good to choice. Among the transactions were the following:

CHICAGO DRY GOODS MARKET.

TUESDAY EVENING, May 14.

There are no noticeable changes in the dry goods market, unless it be a slight falling off in the demand—an event usually looked for at this season of the year, and which has not, therefore, resulted in any material weakening of prices. The stocks are still liberal, and well assorted, and, all things considered, a very satisfactory business is doing. A decline of ½c in paper cambrics, and ½c in Lonsdale bleached cottons, were the only changes worthy of mention. We now quote:

The canal freight commission men contemplate a meeting to-day to agree upon rates. One or two charters have been made at $6.00 per m for lumber to Albany, and $3.50 per ton over toll for staves to New York.

Disasters.

—The steamer Reynolds, last Tuesday, while entering the harbor at Pine River, ran against a hidden rock, knocking a hole in [illegible] below water mark, breaking the frame and three or four planks.

—Information has been received in this city that a collision occurred Friday night, between Kelley's Island and Marblehead, almost at the identical spot at which the scow Forest May collided with the propeller Prairie State and sunk last Wednesday night. The name of the sunken vessel is unknown, as also that of the one with which she collided. Her foretopmast has been carried away, and her foremast head is visible above water.

—The bark Vanderbilt and schooner City of the Straits, which grounded below Bois Blanc, Wednesday, were released Friday afternoon. It required the united services of the tugs Wilcox, Brockway and Frank Moffit to get them afloat.

—A large, green-painted, three masted vessel was [illegible] in the old channel at the Flats, Saturday.

—The schooner Clara Parker bound up, got aground on Friday afternoon, near Rose Reef. It is reported that she cast over a portion of her cargo of coal, and succeeded in getting off Saturday afternoon.

—A despatch from Kingston, Ontario, says that "the barge Dauntless, with corn from propeller East, and barge Wanda with corn from propeller East, wheat from schooner Ocean Wave, and peas from Kingston, are both on Fraser's Shoal, at Edwardsburg. They are not making water."

—The small schooner Industry, which ran ashore between Manitowoc and Two Rivers, last December, has been raised and towed to Manitowoc for repairs.

—The Buffalo Express says: "The bark Sweet Heart left this port light Saturday morning, and, in trying to dodge the ice, got aground on the Canada shore, near Windmill Point, but got off again about noon."

—The propeller City of Boston and the bark Sea Gull collided in the level between locks 3 and 4, Welland Canal a few days since. The propeller had a portion of her cargo damaged.

—The schooners Jennie Mullen, of Chicago, and Mediator, of Oswego, collided in the Welland Canal, at Welland, on Tuesday afternoon, carrying away the jibboom of the Jennie Mullen and a portion of the rigging of the Mediator.

—The schooner Star of the North, laden with railroad ties, which passed Detroit on Saturday, was struck by a heavy squall on the evening of that day while near Point au Pelee which capsized her, the crew barely escaping with their lives. The vessel is owned in Chicago by C. J. Magill, and was built at Cleveland in 1864. The greater portion of her cargo will probably be a total loss.

—The brig Henry Rooney, which went ashore near Fairport last fall, was brought into this port Sunday morning. The wrecking steamer Magnet has been at work at her for some time. The Rooney was loaded with heavy square timber when she went ashore, and, when an attempt was made to get her off the beach, it was found that she was full of sand, which necessitated the removal of all her cargo. It was a slow operation, but the timber was all taken out and placed on the bank, but it was then found that she was deeply sunk in the sand. On Saturday the tug S. S. Coe, in charge of Captain Thomas Pennington, was employed to aid in getting her off. The Coe proceeded to the vessel, and soon made the sand fly in all directions, and about 3 o'clock the Rooney was afloat and started for this port. But the heavy gale that set in forced the wrecking party to return to Fairport, where they lay until Sunday morning, when they again started for Cleveland, where they arrived safely. The Rooney is a very staunch vessel, and is very little damaged by her winter's sojourn on the beach. She was taken to the dry docks for repairs.—Cleveland Herald.

—The propeller Michigan has arrived at Port Colborne in a damaged condition.

—During the squall Saturday afternoon the schooners James Platt and Mont Blanc, lying on the opposite side of the river, were headed round by the wind and driven against the dock, with such violence as to have their jib-booms broken.—Detroit Post.

—The Buffalo Express says: "The tug Bismark, brought four barges from Chicago with an aggregate of over 106,000 bushels corn. In getting through the ice the Bismark broke her wheel, and either on this account or because she became fastened in the ice, she was compelled to let go her tow of barges, and the latter drifted down to the reef below the dummy light, where they were found early yesterday morning and brought safely into port by the tugs Bryant and Tift. The Bismark came in during the morning.

Miscellaneous Items.

WIND.—The wind yesterday was from the E. N. E.

WAGES.—Sailors are still getting $2.00@2.25 per day.

FROM BUFFALO.—The following despatch was received here yesterday: "Propeller Chicago has been towed over to south shore; is now in five fathoms of water, and aground aft. Promenade deck forward about two feet out; vessels alongside; cargo still all on board."

A telegram from Buffalo, yesterday, stated that tugs were asking vessels $300 and guarantee to tow out.

SCOW FOREST MAY RAISED.—This vessel has been raised and towed into shoal water, near the entrance of Sandusky Bay. She will be taken to Sandusky for repairs.

LAUNCH.—The large schooner A. H. Cobb, owned by Captain Alva Bradley, was launched at Cleveland, on Monday.

RANGE LIGHTS AT THE FLATS.—There is much inquiry among tug and vessel men in regard to the range lights at the Flats which thus far this season have not been lit. It is believed that a faithful and industrious man could receive ample remuneration for those interested in this matter. A change from last season is much needed, and a good opportunity is offered to the right kind of a man.

LATEST FROM THE ICE BLOCKADE.—Later and more definite intelligence has reached us from the blockaded port of Buffalo by a letter dated the 11th, also by the arrival of the steamer [illegible], Captain Murch, all of which presents a truly discouraging view of the situation. Captain M. informs us that he counted from the deck of his steamer 112 vessels, eight disabled tugs, besides a number of barges fastened in the ice, which bid fair to remain there for the next ten days, while a letter to Captain Grummond points to a remoter date. A few vessels and steamers have made their escape from that prison-bound city by forcing their way through temporary openings, which would immediately close up again. The ice lies sunk from 40 to 50 feet deep, and in this manner is daily becoming more fortified. Provisions are running low on some of the beleaguered vessels, and some of the crews are beginning to realize they may shortly become a terrible reality.—Detroit Post, May 13.

OTHER ITEMS.—The schooner L. L. Lamb has become a Detroit vessel.

—There is only six feet of water on the bar at Frankfort.

—After the first day of June the steamers Saginaw and Dunlap will run between Menominee and Escanaba, instead of running from Green Bay.

—The tonnage of the new steamer Levi Grant, launched at Sheboygan the other day, is 306.92.

—The Buffalo Express says: "Out of twelve tugs in service here only four were in running order on Saturday. The work battering with the large cakes of ice has proved rather disastrous, sending most of them to the docks for repairs. Several will be out again this morning."

IRON VESSELS.—From a long and interesting article on this subject we extract the following:

Previous to 1862 there was but one iron steam vessel on the lakes. This was the United States steamer Michigan. She was got out at Erie, Pa., in 1844, and is still in commission and as good as new. The following table gives a list of all the iron propellers, tugs, and yachts at Buffalo, N. Y., and those in process of construction at that place, and at Detroit, Mich.:

There are now on the stocks at the King Iron Works, Buffalo, and nearly completed, four iron propellers, of about 1,500 tons each, for the trade between Buffalo and Chicago, and two of about 1,500 tons each, at Detroit, building by Wyandotte Co., of that place. There is also on the stocks at Buffalo, and nearly ready for launching, one iron composite propeller for towing purposes, and one iron yacht.

It will be observed that rapid progress has been made in iron ship building since 1870. A corresponding increase in the future will make this industry the greatest in the Western country.

THE PROJECTED STRIKE.

The display of workingmen in to-day's procession will be creditable or discreditable, as the motives and judgment which direct it are either wise or foolish. We do not ask the workingmen to consult the interests of their employers. They are bound only to consult intelligently their own interests. But we do urge that this consultation be calm, intelligent, and dispassionate. Above all, let it be business-like, each man deciding according to what will be most for his own interest. In this manner only can the aggregate decision promote the interest of all. We have now, in Chicago, say:

| | Per diem. | Per w'k. |
|---|---|---|
| 12,000 carpenters, earning $3 50 per day | $42,000 | $252,000 |
| 8,000 bricklayers, earning $5 per day | 40,000 | 240,000 |
| 2,000 plasterers, earning $5 per day | 10,000 | 60,000 |
| 2,000 painters, earning $3 50 per day | 7,000 | 42,000 |
| 3,500 stone-cutters, earning $4 per day | 14,000 | 84,000 |
| 27,500 workingmen, earning | $113,000 | $678,000 |

A strike by the above workmen stops a supply of $678,000 per week, or about two millions every three weeks, now being paid to their families. A strike for two months would waste a larger sum of money than the whole world's charity to Chicago on the occasion of her great calamity,—a charity so munificent that even the donors were astonished at the grand aggregate of their own liberality. It would mean for each working man the waste of more money than he could save by his labor for a year. Indeed, all workingmen would soon become capitalists if each one of them would save, every year an amount equal to his earnings for two months.

It is true that capitalists would also lose, contractors would be delayed in the completion of their contracts, and landlords would be postponed in opening their buildings for occupation. But contractors and landlords are both exempt from real pecuniary suffering. Their bank account will be lower, and, being men of energetic habits, they may swear as terribly as "our army in Flanders." But their homes will be just as comfortable, their dinners as sumptuous, and their general activities and enjoyments as uninterrupted as if no strike had occurred. There will be no actual loss to them of a million dollars a week, nor anything like it. There will be only the delay of doing next month what they had preferred to do this month. We candidly think that in such a strike the loss to the employers that can be legitimately effected by a strike alone, unaccompanied by any riot, is ridiculously small, compared with the actual loss to the workmen. The difference is in the expense account. The workmen's wages are mostly devoted to their weekly expenses. Though their pay stops their expenses run on; while, in the case of contractors and landlords, engaged in building, when the work stops their expenses stop. If the workmen are supported by contributions by their fellow-workmen, it is still their side that loses, not the capitalist party.

But this is not the whole of the account. These 30,000 workingmen are nearly all tenants, very few of them owning houses of their own. If they board, their rent is a part of the weekly charge. With their families, averaging three to each workingman, they number 100,000 people to be provided with shelter,—a number nearly as great as was burned out of homes by the great conflagration. Not much less than one-third of the population of the city are connected by some tie of dependence with this mechanic and building class. They have the most direct interest as tenants in reducing rents, and this can only be done by the rapid rebuilding of the city. If a general strike should delay the rebuilding of Chicago, for every day the work is so delayed the workmen engaged in it will find an extra dollar per month added to their rent next winter. No class will suffer from it more than they, their wives, and their children. Nor is this all. The fewer stores they rebuild, the higher and dearer will be all the necessaries of life, groceries, clothing, &c., this summer and next winter. No class will feel this oppressive scale of prices more keenly than those who live from hand to month, lay in no large supplies, have no facilities for buying at wholesale prices, and are, therefore, a prey to such merchants as must make up for the dear rents they pay by selling dear. Particu[illegible]y will the workingmen and their families feel the biting inconveniences of these high prices if they have wasted the working days of summer in waging a war of idleness on the promoters and employers of industry. The poor of Chicago have a far greater interest than the rich in the rapid, prompt, and cheap rebuilding of the city. The rich man, however rich, can occupy but one house, can wear but one suit of clothes at a time, and can eat but three meals a day. The limit of his consumption and enjoyment is after all about that which is reached by every workingman. Every building he erects to rent, therefore, is a loan of so much fixed capital to the occupant, and the more buildings he erects the more fixed capital he offers to loan to his poorer neighbors, and consequently the lower the rate at which a man without cap[illegible] of his own can obtain the use of that of [illegible]rs. There would be less tendency [illegible]ng workingmen to make war on capital if they fully understood that the only way in which the capitalist can make money out of his capital is to lend it, in some form, to workingmen. Whether he lays in a heavy stock of merchandise to-day, to sell to the workingman when he will want it next winter, or whether he builds tenements or stores to rent, or invests it in employing labor, or deposits it in a bank to be loaned by the bank to builders or merchants, who in turn use it in employing labor,—in any case, the whole capital of the country inures to the benefit of its labor, every investment of capital is in a disguised form a loan to labor, and a war by labor on capital is a war on the laborer's own bread and butter.

Are strikes, then, never justifiable? We think that they are. Labor is entitled to the wages which the supply and demand of labor call for, and sometimes there is no other way to ascertain what rate of wages the law of supply and demand will justify but to test it by a strike. But in the present case no demand is made for higher pay per day. The pretence on which it is sought to agitate the workingmen, and stop the rebuilding of the city, is the eight-hour scheme. Of course, the full ten hours' wages are asked for the eight hours' work; and it is thought that the pressure of the late calamity on our city, and the eager competition among owners to get their property rebuilt, may induce contractors to give ten hours' wages for eight hours' work. It is not contended that the fire left owners any richer than they were before, but it is supposed that, having lost so much by the fire, they cannot now afford to be waylaid by a strike.

But they can afford it perfectly well. Many of the buildings already erected on the burnt district have not been rented, and cannot be, because they have ceased to be desirable to tenants until the surrounding buildings are up and the whole grand aggregate of business pours once more into the burnt district in a flood. If a strike suspends business, the workingmen will soon find that a good many employers are glad of it, as the real question in the minds of many owners now is, where they will find tenants for their buildings during the first six months after their completion. Ladies cannot brave the dust and turmoil of the burnt district to get into the new dry goods stores there erecting. So of nearly all kinds of retail business. Offices cannot at first be rented in many parts of the burnt district. The people cannot be induced to come there at present.

Nobody has a greater interest than the workingmen in working the full ten hours a day, and thereby restoring the city rapidly without check or hindrance. There never was a time when employers needed the full value of their money more, nor when workingmen needed more to economize their time and to coin it into money while they can. These are the words of truth and soberness. This is the time for them to save their money,—not to jump into the water after the shadow of good things, at the risk of losing what they already possess.

MR. GREELEY'S PRIVATE CHARACTER.

We wish to call attention to the fact that in all the relations of life, in everything that pertains to the personal conduct of a man, Horace Greeley is, in the full sense of the word, a man of unblemished morality. He is not a reformed drunkard, because in his long and laborious life he has observed abstemious and temperate habits. If elected, he will be under no necessity to promise his friends to abstain from intoxication while President. No such pledge in the case of Horace Greeley is required. His whole life is a guarantee that he will neither be drunk in public, or in private. He will never be unfit for business because of stimulants or abstenence from stimulants, nor will he need a strong draught in the morning to settle his nerves. Nor will Mr. Greeley tolerate men who are in the habit of being intoxicated, in places of high trust and responsibility.

Mr. Greeley has been through all his life foremost in political contests. He has been conspicuous because of his ability and because of his position at the head of a great public journal. He has been exposed to all manner of gibes and ridicule, all manner of imputations and detractions; but in no contest, of whatever kind, has personal or political enemy ever hinted at any species of immorality in his public or private conduct. Thrown into constant political and social intercourse with all kinds of people, under all kinds of circumstances, he has come forth with his personal character unblemished, and free even from slander, as regards his personal behavior.

In his business intercourse he has been beyond reproach. He has never defrauded a human being of a penny, nor has he ever performed a mercenary act. His integrity has been invulnerable. Throughout his life, though liberal in the extreme to the needy and the unfortunate, he has never asked nor accepted fees or rewards, whether given under the pretence of presents or subscriptions. What he owns has been earned by his own labor. He is not under pecuniary obligations to any person. Holding a position in which he could, by merely accepting what was thrust upon him, have amassed wealth and forfeited self-respect, he has rejected all things in the shape of bribes, and stands before his countrymen to-day as free from personal obligations to his fellow-men as he was when, forty years ago, he entered New York City seeking work as a journeyman.

Mr. Greeley, though surrounded by advocates of all manner of new-fangled social relations, has never been weakened in his regard for the cause of true morality. He has been coaxed and threatened, but has always upheld the sanctity of the marriage relation, and denounced and scouted free love as bitterly as an orthodox divine. To the advocates of these latitudinarian doctrines in matters of marriage and the relations of the sexes, Horace Greeley has been a perpetual obstacle. He has been a sharp thorn in their side, and upon him they have made, and will continue to make, unrelenting war. Unlike many self-styled champions of morality, Mr. Greeley has presented a life of practical purity, and, though he has never failed to give the precept when it was proper for him to do so, his living example has surpassed many volumes written and spoken by others.

In a Government where the Executive should represent in his own person the intelligence, morality, and integrity of the people by whom he is chosen, the absence of the ordinary virtues in that officer is specially unfortunate. We believe that morality and decency have a high and controlling influence in the minds of a large majority of the American people. We believe that the American people have a hearty appreciation of the man who, through a long and active struggle in life, has preserved a clear head, clean hands, and pure heart, and that when the opportunity occurs they will not fail to show their appreciation by supporting him at the polls.

THE GERMAN VOTE.

The office-holders and their organs, in their political calculations, assume, as a matter of course, that, because the Irish are going for Greeley, therefore the Germans are going for Grant,—a sequitur which cannot be deduced from any such premises, and which is anything but complimentary to the Germans themselves. It presupposes a deep-rooted enmity between the two peoples, and an aversion for the Irish so strong that the Germans will vote against any candidate if the former favor him, and vote for any whom they oppose, regardless of their convictions of right and wrong, or the character of the candidate's principles. It is true that heretofore the votes of these two nationalities in the West have been cast for different candidates, not because the Germans were opposed to the Irish, but because the Germans have very generally voted the Republican and the Irish the Democratic ticket. To assume that, because they have voted in this manner, there must be some national feeling which will always make them antagonistic, is as absurd as it would be to assume that, because the people of Illinois vote for the Republican ticket and the people of Kentucky for the Democratic, therefore there is a sectional antagonism between them, which will always lead the one to oppose what the other favors. If there is such a feud between the Irish and the Germans as the office-holders assume, they certainly do not show any signs of it. They are neighbors in all parts of this city and dwell very peaceably together. During the late fire-ordinance troubles, they found no difficulty in affiliating and marching together under German and Irish leaders. At the last city election, they voted together at the polls for the same ticket. All through the burnt district, they work side by side, in perfect harmony, and to-day they will turn out together in public procession, to make a labor demonstration. The German Catholic and Irish Catholic societies worship in contiguous churches without interference, and intermingle in their services without jarring. Any concerted trouble between Irish and Germans as a class is as rare as between any other two nationalities, and, if such a feeling exists, they have certainly a very successful way of concealing it, since it neither crops out in social life, work, religion, or politics; and what is true of Germans here is true of them elsewhere.

To say that the Germans are bound to vote in opposition to the Irish is a stigma upon German intelligence and a reflection upon their civilization, which they will be quick to resent. If any class of citizens always vote from honest convictions, it is the Germans. They examine as closely and probe as deeply into political questions as any class of people, and more so than the average of American voters, and they adhere to their convictions more pertinaciously than Americans. An average German will vote according to his convictions of right, if all the world votes against him. A German is, both by nature and education, of an investigating turn of mind. He forms his opinions independently, and adheres to them resolutely. He never does anything because another man does, or because another man doesn't. Any other assumption than this shows ignorance of German character, and is based upon a very low estimate of German conscientiousness. If the Germans vote for Grant, they will do so, not because the Irish vote against him, but because they believe they are voting right; and, if they vote for Mr. Greeley, they will vote for him because they believe they are voting right, without any reference to the action of the Irish, or any other class of people.

If any obstacle stands in the way of any German voting for Mr. Greeley, it is an unfounded impression that, in case of his election, he may do something to interfere with their ideas and practices touching the observance of Sunday and temperance,—an impression which of course has no basis on which to rest. During the past four years, General Grant has not done anything to prevent their spending Sunday as they please, or drinking their beer to both heart's and stomach's content, neither has he done anything to advance their interests in these directions, for the very good reason that he was powerless to do either. Mr. Greeley, during the next four years, will be just as powerless. He has no more to do with the Sunday laws and Temperance question than General Grant, and, if he were a cold-water teetotaller and a believer in the Connecticut Blue Laws—which he is far from being—he would still be powerless to affect the liberty of a single person in either regard. These are matters pertaining purely to local legislation. Public sentiment, not the Executive assent or veto, controls them. The German who wishes to go to his concert or take his family out to the woods on Sunday will go just as often in Mr. Greeley's Presidency as he did in Grant's, and beer will be taxed no higher in the next four years than during the last four. It will not take long for German intelligence to recognize this fact, and, having recognized it, that fraction of the Germans who have made the mistake of supposing that the President of the United States has anything to do with Sunday and Temperance laws, will join the rest of their brethren, and follow, as we do, the banner of Carl Schurz, the representative German-American, whose superior as statesman, orator, scholar, and gentleman this country does not contain. They are in accord with him on the great questions of the day, and they are in accord with the principles promulgated at Cincinnati. They will vote according to their honest convictions, which, in the end, will be for Mr. Greeley.

VOORHEES ON THE WAR-PATH.

Dan Voorhees has made his splurge. A greater man than Dan once stood upon the sea-shore and bade the waves not [illegible] his feet, but the waves rolled on just the same. The "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash," the name Daniel wears when he puts on his war-paint, declares he won't vote for Greeley; he is no such person; his Democracy comes to him through a long ancestral line, and he will be satrap to no Horace Greeley; he prefers association with such high-toned Democrats as Morton and Grant. He is a Democrat of the Jackson type,—hence will, in the coming campaign, champion the Secor claims and the Chorpenning [illegible]wance,—those noble instances of administration by those noble Democrats, Robinson and Creswell. The Tall Sycamore may break, but he will never bend; he has devoted his life to a fight against Protection, and, therefore, will not vote for Horace Greeley. On the contrary, he will take his stand in that brilliant array of Free-Traders, Kelley, Maynard, and Boutwell. He will not vote for Horace Greeley, but enlists under the banner of Grant, bearing that old familiar legend of Jeffersonian Democracy, "The civil authority always subordinate to the military." How he will arouse the fervor of the Democracy of Indiana by telling them that the President may rightfully march his troops into that State to suppress the Ku-Klux, overturn the State Government, shut up the civil Courts, suspend the habeas corpus, and administer the Government, State and Municipal, through Captains and Colonels.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE from the first has predicted that, in the breaking up of parties which no longer have any vital principles, and the formation of new ones based upon living issues, a certain class of Democrats would at once unite with that faction which was in possession of the spoils. The first recruit is Mosby, the Virginia guerrilla. The next is the Tall Sycamore of the Wabash, who proposes to stump Pennsylvania in company with Simon Cameron and D. J. Morrell, to put down that arch-Protectionist, Horace Greeley. He announces his purpose of going South and convincing the Democracy in that region that Horace Greeley compelled the Republicans of both Houses of Congress to pass all the Ku-Klux and other oppressive legislation, and that, had it not been that Horace Greeley advocated general amnesty, Congress would have long since passed such an act. Mr. Voorhees will not be alone. The Cincinnati Convention smashed a great amount of political crockery, Mr. Voorhees' china-set among the rest. Other persons had sold out not only that, but the Baltimore nomination, and now they cannot deliver either the one or the other. Mr. Greeley has made no contracts or bargains with any persons or factions. He is the people's candidate, who will not be used to promote the aims of any politician. He will, therefore, be obnoxious to a very large tribe of professional Democrats, who hang around Washington, and who, for a consideration, are ready to do or say almost anything. We do not apply this remark to Mr. Voorhees, who, in our opinion, is simply exasperated at the failure of his speculation in Davis stock, and in the white heat of his indignation mistakes himself for the Democratic party, or some other political organization. But it is true that the meeting of the Democratic Convention has been called at Baltimore, to give the better opportunity for the largest commercial intercourse with Washington. But it will all be in vain. The next President is not to be made at Washington. He has already been named by the people, at home, in their villages, and on their farms. Against this popular resolution the protest of such men as Voorhees is but as a penny-whistle against the whirlwind. It is the first dying speech of a long list of small politicians, who have too long burthened the public ear. Exit Voorhees!

The Cincinnati Commercial suggests that if it be true that General Badeau has ransacked the records of the War Department and carried off to London everything that he wanted, to [illegible] his military history of General Grant, General Anson Stager, Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company, should be summoned to make a searching examination of the telegraphic correspondence of the President, Secretary of War, and General-in-Chief, and the officers in the field during the war, to verify the safety or confirm the loss of these historical treasures. The Commercial says that General Stager was in charge of this correspondence during the war, and is, therefore, the fittest person to make the examination.

It is not probable that any such examination will be ordered until after the 4th of March next; and, if it is deemed necessary to make one then, the proper person to superintend it will be Colonel Thomas T. Eckert, now Superintendent of the Eastern Division of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who (and not General Stager) had charge of this correspondence during the greater part of the war. The services of Colonel Eckert were so highly esteemed by Secretary Stanton, that the latter made him Acting Assistant Secretary of War after the retirement of Mr. Dana.

The Boston Post, alluding to the disappearance of the Buell court-martial record, says:

> Wherever General Badeau's historical footsteps are seen, there are found vacant pigeonholes and empty chests. It may be true that the biography supplies all omissions, but not even the most unsuspicious mind can observe without distrust that, where General Buell's vindication might interfere with the glorification of General Grant, the documents necessary to establish it have disappeared utterly; and that the records of the court-martial, which may be supposed to contradict the accusations against that officer made in General Badeau's first volume, have been spirited away in spite of the precautions of the Department. It is an unusual advantage which this biographer enjoyed, of destroying his bridges, and thus effectively cutting off pursuit, if he was so disposed; and, although no one will wish to accuse General Badeau of deliberate falsification, the temptation which must beset one writing history to order, with full power over contradictory testimony, offers ground for suspicion.

The result of the first day's ballot for United States Senator in Connecticut indicates the progress of the Cincinnati movement. Mr. Ferry, the present Senator, has made himself obnoxious to the Administration because of his independence,—voting for investigations, voting against San Domingo, and generally opposing the caucus cabals. General Hawley, a delegate to the Philadelphia Convention, was selected to succeed him. There was a strong protest against the dismissal of Mr. Ferry, but the party in power shouted "Crucify him!" The result was, that over thirty Republicans refused to attend the Legislative caucus, and determined to vote for Mr. Ferry. The Democratic members who support Mr. Greeley united with the Republican supporters of Mr. Ferry, and the result yesterday indicates that he will be elected to-day in joint ballot by possibly ten majority. This result further shows that Executive dictation will always meet with a prompt rebuke. There is no question now that Mr. Greeley will carry Connecticut in November by a greater majority than has been obtained by any candidate in that State for many years.

The Milwaukee Sentinel, which has all along been shouting lustily for Grant, now says:

> We prefer Grant because he seems to be the strongest man; and the strongest man, of course, is the one who is the most acceptable to the people. If the Philadelphia Convention considers Grant a hazardous candidate for the party, after calmly weighing all the circumstances that surround us, it ought not to hesitate a moment, but reject him and nominate some one else. General Grant has no claims upon the office, but the party has claims upon him, and it has the same right to place him on the retired list of Presidents that it has to use him as Commander-in-Chief for another campaign.

The bee which has got into the bonnet of the Grant party seems to be a very troublesome one, stinging first here and then there, and has raised a specially large blister on the Sentinel. If all the office-holders are for Grant, and all the office-holders' newspapers are for Grant, and all the delegates to Philadelphia are for Grant, and Grant is the strongest man, because most acceptable to the people,—why reject him and nominate somebody else, or even talk about rejecting him? They should have more respect for a man's feelings than to set out a magnificent dinner in his special honor, and then invite a stranger to take his chair at the table.

The following proclamation has been issued by the men on board the sinking ship at Washington:

> OFFICE OF INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE,
> JOHNSTOWN, Pa., May 8, 1872.
> Hon. W. E. Chandler, Washington, D. C.:
> DEAR SIR: The Industrial League will not support Mr. Greeley. Yours,
> CYRUS ELDER, Secretary.

There may be some curiosity to know what is the "Industrial League" which officially announces that it will not support Mr. Greeley. It consists of a combination of iron and steel manufacturers in Pennsylvania, who have purchased certain English patents for making Bessemer steel, and who, under the protection of Congress, have a charter to collect taxes from the American people. These men have money, and they are able to control a good many votes in both branches of Congress; but they cannot poll, all told, as many votes as will be given by the hod-carriers in Chicago. There is not a blacksmith in the Western States, and their number is many thousands, who will not vote for Horace Greeley, if for no other reason than that he is opposed by the great iron despotism of Pennsylvania.

A bill was introduced in the House of Representatives, on Monday last, to extend the same relief to the sufferers by the late fire at Somerset, Pa., which destroyed the entire business section of the town, as was granted to the sufferers by the Chicago fire. The bill is an eminently proper one. The same reasons exist for a rebate of duty in the case of Somerset as existed in our own case, and are probably even more pressing, as Somerset has lost all her business, and a portion of ours was preserved. We trust, therefore, that the excellent precedent established in our case will induce Congress to extend the relief at once. Marshalltown, Iowa, has also suffered by fire recently, to the utter destruction of its business interests. Let this once busy Iowa town be also helped to its feet again. The prompter the help, the more effective it will be.

The Common Council have at last admitted the new Chicago & LaSalle Railroad into the city, and by a unanimous vote. We trust this is an omen favorable to the admission of the other roads which are waiting for the same permission. If there was no objection to the Chicago & LaSalle Road, there certainly can be none to the others, which are willing to come in on the same terms. Chicago needs them, and must have them for the accommodation of her rapidly increasing business, as well as for her continued development, and it is to be hoped there will be no further delay in admitting them, and the sooner it is done the better for all concerned.

POLITICAL.

The Iowa election occurs this year in November, and there is now much discussion whether the Republican Convention shall meet in June or August.

—The Lawrence (Kan.) Journal speaks of Dan Voorhees as the representative of the creek-bottom and pokeberry Democracy.

—White hats with brown bands have appeared in St. Louis.

—The Council Bluffs Times hauls down the Davis-Parker ticket, and supports the Cincinnati nominees.

—The Quincy Herald says:

> A vote was taken for President, a few days since, upon the steamer Grey Eagle. There were fifty-five passengers on board, of whom twenty-five went for Greeley, seventeen for Ulysses, and thirteen were undecided, but favorably disposed to H. G.

—A Greeley Club has been organized at Leavenworth,—General Larrimer, President, and Professor Schuereman, Secretary.

—The Denver (Col.) Herald raises the Liberal banner, and supports the nominations in an enthusiastic editorial.

—The New York Herald says:

> There is no mistake about it; the majority of our exchanges, Democratic and otherwise, go for Greeley and Brown.

—The Washington Patriot, like the faithful attached Rachel that it is, still mourns over the slaughtered "Davis ring," and refuses to be comforted. Mr. Greeley, it says, is an original Abolitionist and Radical Republican. Radical Republicans like Trumbull and Schurz would be his advisers. His Administration would be strictly Republican. Ergo, true Democrats cannot support him.

—The Milwaukee News suggests Alexander Mitchell for United States Senator vice Howe.

—The Watseka (Ill.) Times says:

> The "regular" Republican County Convention, for appointing delegates to the State and Congressional Conventions, met yesterday afternoon in this city. They had a Postmaster for Chairman and a Postmaster for Secretary, with a liberal sprinkling of Postmasters all around. We suggested that they be arranged in a row on the front seats, but the suggestion was not acted upon. The Committee on Credentials catechised the delegates, and all who would not [illegible] oath were unseated, which resulted in leaving some [illegible] unrepresented, and others with only a partial representation.

—The Carlinville (Ill.) Democrat says:

> The Liberal programme seems to be to run Senator Trumbull for Governor, but the Chicago Times declares it won't support him. A slate is being made up with Bill Morrison for Congress from this District, and Mayor Walker for State Senator.

—Colonel Lucien J. Easton, of the Glasgow Journal, is suggested as the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Missouri.

—The Hon. Charles G. Buckalew coyly consents to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania.

—The Hon. Thomas D. Gilbert, of Grand Rapids, who has been mentioned for Governor of Michigan, declines, and indorses Governor Baldwin for the position.

—Charles R. Thomas has been nominated for a second term in Congress by the Republicans of the Second District of North Carolina.

—The Hon. Henry Stanbery, formerly Attorney General of the United States, having been invited to address a Greeley ratification meeting at Newport, Ky., replied:

> "As I do not hesitate to approve the action of the Cincinnati Convention, I regret that it is not in my power to meet your wishes. On some other, and not distant day, when I feel more ability for the labor, I will be happy to address the citizens of Newport upon the vital questions which the action of that Convention involves."

—The Washington Republican (the Court organ) says the indications are that the Democracy will swallow Greeley and Brown; that this belief is strengthening daily. "Such," it says, "is the drift of opinion among the leading Democratic politicians in this city. Southern men, who have hitherto been bitter and outspoken in their hostility to the Republican party and to the North, seem to be enthusiastically in his (Greeley's) favor." This, from the President's pocket-handkerchief, a sheet that has heretofore treated the Cincinnati nominations only with ridicule, is significant.

—Efforts to "save Pennsylvania" by the withdrawal of Hartranft are thus far of no avail. A Philadelphia correspondent says:

> Ten days ago, three of the leading Grant Republicans of this State were in Washington, in conference with Grant and Senator Cameron relative to the retirement of Hartranft from his candidacy for the Gubernatorial office. Grant was unwilling to risk the dubious chances of a re-election unless Pennsylvania was secured to the Grant Radicals in October, while Cameron was not wholly indifferent to the retirement of Hartranft, if his nephew, the Hon. John B. Packer, became his successor. Mackey and Quay—who were two-thirds of the eminent three—told Grant that Hartranft would be elected by a larger majority than was ever given any candidate in Pennsylvania, and that under no circumstances would he be withdrawn. Still the wise head of the nation doubted, and maintained that Hartranft's withdrawal was essential to his (the President's) success in November next. Thus matters stood at the close of the conference. Hartranft, who is as wise a statesman as Grant, and his equal in everything, now proposes that U. S. Grant retire from the field as an aspirant for another Presidential term, believing that if he remains in the race he will endanger the election of Mr. Hartranft in October next. As the greater portion of the active Republicans in this city, from Colonel William B. Mann and Mayor Stockley, down to Hill and Kemble, agree with Hartranft it remains to be seen whether Hartranft will throw up the sponge to save Grant in November, or Grant decline a renomination to secure Hartranft the Governorship in October.

The Sentiment in Coles County, Ill.

MATTOON, Ill., May 13.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:

SIR: There is one thing manifestly true of our locality, and that is, that Horace Greeley has friends here,—friends, too, who will defend his cause, or rather, the cause of which he is the distinguished and worthy leader. The Grant men are puzzled. They had made up their minds to have an easy fight with Davis. True, Davis was a good man; but he did not reach the hearts of the old-line Republicans, as Greeley does. There has been no regular organization here yet; but a careful survey of the field induces the Greeley men to think that they can carry this city and county next fall. One thing is curious to note: It is generally the old, original Republicans that go for Greeley. The young fledgelings, the new converts, those that came into the party and asked office as soon as they were warm in the Republican nest, or perhaps made it a condition precedent to their coming into our camp,—all these are for Grant, and regard treason to Morton, Conkling & Co. as treason to the Republican party and to the country.

The Mattoon Commercial (Democratic) is out for Greeley and Brown, "subject to the decision of the people," and not subject to what any convention says. Our leading Democrats, such as the Hon. O. B. Ficklin, are hearty in their support of the ticket.

You may count on a warm fight in this county, but I think success is not doubtful.

JOHN CUNNINGHAM.

The Situation in Iowa.

CLINTON, Iowa, May 13.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:

SIR: The "Bread and Butter Brigade," believing that the large Republican majorities heretofore given by this State render certain a like plurality for Grant in the coming election, are making no special effort to keep the party true to the interests of the Administration faction, but not content in the fancied security of their position, and, knowing that censure for the want of fealty is not likely to reach them from the autocrat of political [illegible], they find ample time to deride and laugh at the candidate whom the people had the "temerity" to set up as a rival claimant for a position which they have been graciously informed by their master he intends keeping for at least another term.

Slang-phrases and stale jokes, known wherever the name of Greeley is known, are the [illegible] of their best arguments against him, [illegible] as are the men [illegible] that men as sternly [illegible] who instituted [illegible] those who indorse the reform movement will not be influenced by silly remarks about the personal appearance or habits of a candidate whose individuality to them is merged into that which is of greater moment to all than any candidate can ever be, and that is, the question of reform in the administration of public affairs. If it is true that this State will give a majority for Grant, it is equally true that many of the counties will enter a vigorous protest against such action, by electing men from the Liberal Republican ranks to local offices. The Counties of Dubuque, Jackson, Clinton, Scott, and others, will doubtless give a large majority for Greeley.

The Reform movement is gaining ground here every day, and THE TRIBUNE is doing a noble work in this State in advocating a Government of the people by the people, for the people.

Sentiment in Dane County, Wis.

MAZOMANIE, Dane Co., Wis., May 13.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:

SIR: Although somewhat surprised at the first announcement of the nomination of Horace Greeley, the Liberal Republicans here are perfectly satisfied with the candidates and the platform. Having entire confidence in Horace Greeley as a man of sterling honesty, and independence of character, his patriotism and ability no sensible person will question. He has acquired whatever fortune he is possessed of by his own industry, not through gifts, from interested admirers, nor from participation in the profits of corrupt rings. His record for the past thirty years holds out to us the hope that we may yet redeem the Government from the profligacy and abuse of the present period, and restore it to something of its former purity, as it existed under the founders of the Republic,—a blessing and a protection to the citizen, not a great machine to squeeze taxes out of the people to enrich the Executive and his parasites. We hold, that the great strength of Horace Greeley lies in the fact that, like the lamented Lincoln, he is essentially, and emphatically, a man of the people, who will surely elect him next President, if not cheated by designing politicians. In view of its effect in drawing off the greatest number of Republicans from the support of Grant, we consider the nomination as the very best that could be made.

In this town, we have already, since the adjournment of the Convention, received several accessions to our ranks from among Republicans who have heretofore stood aloof from, or openly opposed, the Liberal movement, or, as our Postmaster says, "the rebellion," to put down which he wants General Grant re-elected because he is a great soldier, and he says, "Greeley would make poor work handling an army in the field." This, according to his logic, is the only purpose for which we elect Presidents. With a great majority of those who still continue to support Grant, it is a common expression, "I would not feel very badly if Greeley should be elected;" or, "Well, I would as soon vote for Horace Greeley as anybody."

Immediately upon the reception of the news, several of the leading Democrats announced their support of the ticket; in fact, all the Democrats in the vicinity, so far as heard from (with one or two exceptions), say they will vote for Greeley and Brown, provided, there are no Democratic candidates in the field. The thinking and more intelligent portion of them are decidedly opposed to the Democratic National Convention making any nomination, and will not throw away their votes, thereby securing the re-election of Grant and three years more of power and plunder to his satellites.

We have a large German population in this and the adjoining towns, comprising some of our best citizens. I have conversed with a great number of them, and find that some of them entertain objections to Greeley's temperance and protection principles; otherwise, they concede that he is an upright and able man; but they appear to thoroughly understand the situation, and, I am assured, will heartily support Greeley and Brown. Yours respectfully,

W. H. WHITNEY.

Comments of the Press.

From the Decatur (Ill.) Magnet (Democratic).

It was, perhaps, well enough to name the 9th of July as the day for the Democratic Convention; but it will not be well enough for Democrats to supinely wait for the Baltimore Convention to tell them what to do. It is their duty to advise the Baltimore Convention.

Democrats have sense enough to understand that, in the event of a party nomination at Baltimore, one of two events would be inevitable: Either the withdrawal of Mr. Greeley, from the utter discouragement of his adherents, or the transfer of the election, in its triangular form, from the people to Mr. Grant's House of Representatives, where the result is a foregone conclusion.

Let Liberal Republicans and Democrats look each other in the face and understand each other. The Liberal move, before Cincinnati, had large Democratic sympathy. Was that sympathy simulated, in order to produce a party split? Or was it the manly, patriotic sentiment which, rising above mere partisan ends and the aims of personal ambitions, hailed the signs of the times as omens of good for the country, with the earnest purpose of nursing them into life and giving them the vigor of practical utility?

Let the people do their duty in this crisis and we will answer for the result at Baltimore. It is well now to remember that there are regulars in another camp than at Mr. Grant's headquarters. We, as Democrats, propose to abide the result at Baltimore, but we propose to have a hand in shaping results at Baltimore.

From the Danville (Ill.) Times (Republican).

We would not conceal the fact that we are Horace Greeley's admirer and friend. More than any living man on either hemisphere he has been a safe adviser of the toiling millions of earth. He has been the unfailing enemy of jobbing and corruption, and from him thieves and robbers hide their deformed heads in shame. To sneer at and deride Horace Greeley—to speak contemptuously of him—is to show one's ignorance and want of sense. To magnify his errors of judgment—(he is not accused of errors of heart)—is to show a want of magnanimity.

We believe that Horace Greeley's elevation to the Chief Magistracy would be the best possible proof that our countrymen appreciate the most exalted talent combined with honest purpose.

From the Mound City (Ill.) Journal (Democratic).

We lose patience when reading such Democratic sheets as the Chicago Times and News. They would sacrifice the best interests of the country to save party, and then are so stupid they cannot see what the interests of the party demand.

The Democratic party cannot now turn back from the Liberal Republican movement. Such a course would be a breach of faith that would bring the party into disgrace and contempt, and ruin it forever. It would be an exhibition of a lack of honor and integrity that it could never survive. Its honorable members, those possessed of a little self-respect, would have to hold aloof from it.

Everybody knows the great Cincinnati Convention would not have been held had not, by common consent, the Democracy pledged themselves in every way practicable to pursue the "passive" policy, let the insurgent Republicans nominate, then support the nominations unitedly and with vigor, to wrest power from the hands of the dangerous, corrupt, imperial ring that has almost a death-like clutch on it.

The Democratic members of Congress agreed to this; our Democratic legislators and State Executive Committee agreed to it; the Democratic press and leading, representative Democrats throughout the country almost unanimously agreed to it, and the Liberals went at work and inaugurated a great revolution in the Republican party on the strength of it, which culminated in the Cincinnati Convention and the nomination of Greeley and Brown.

Can any honest, prominent Democrat now step forward and say that was a mere trick; we were deceiving the Republicans to create a split among them, intending to run a straight ticket in between? That will not do, and any party that attempts such a thing is virtually dead and buried. No honest man would disgrace himself by continuing his alliance with it. The vote it would poll in the coming November election, after such an action, would cause the cheeks of those who would lead off in the act of stultification to burn with shame. The party would show itself void of conscience and merit death.

Every sensible, thinking person must know that a breach of faith with the Liberals would drive them all back to the support of the Administration party, which, of course, would continue Grant in power. Then very many disgusted Democrats would not vote at all, and some would be spiteful enough to support the Radical ticket!

If a Democratic National Convention is to be held, let reliable, honest delegates only be sent to it, men instructed to indorse the action of the Cincinnati Convention.

The ultra Southern Democrats are enthusiastic in the support of Greeley and Brown; then why should not Northern Democrats be satisfied. Copperheadism formerly was supposed to increase in virulence and quantity as you progressed South; now it appears to be otherwise, judging from the Chicago Democratic press.

Liberal Democrats must come to the front and put down the traitors and Bourbons. Let the National Convention be composed of the right kind of material.

From the Lincoln (Ill.) Statesman (Republican).

The desolate and waste places of the South, under the influence of Greeley's judicious and genial administration and guidance, will be made to blossom as the rose. Then truly shall we have peace, and see the bayonets and swords used upon an unwilling people turned into pruning-hooks and plow-shears, and carpet-baggers and other thieves brought to justice. * * *

Liberal Republicans and Democrats, we have given you our views, and have nailed to our masthead the names of Horace Greeley and B. Gratz Brown, and for their election we propose to work, and in this good undertaking, with the most hopeful assurance of success, we invite your cordial co-operation and assistance.

From the Minneapolis (Minn.) Tribune (Administration).

What, then, is the use of trying to deny, as some of our cotemporaries do, Mr. Greeley's strength? Or where is the use of trying to belittle the Liberal movement? It seems to us the better way is to accord their "belligerent rights," treat them fairly as open enemies than to skirmish with them on the bushwhacking plan. If they are so insignificant as some of the regular Republican papers represent them, why all this fuss? Why not leave them alone in their nothingness? For ourselves, we prefer to treat the Liberal Republicans as open enemies to old time Republicanism, and as such to fight them openly and to the end. That they are premature bolters is true, but they form a very respectable and dangerous minority of the Republican party, and as such are entitled to fair and honorable treatment at the hands of the majority. We think, before the campaign is over, our cotemporaries who are now inclined to ridicule Mr. Greeley, will agree with us upon this point.

From the Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat (Administration).

Some of our cotemporaries, it seems to us, are inclined to underrate the strength of Greeley with the Democracy. The plot which met with such remarkable success at Cincinnati has been long maturing. It is no spasmodic movement, but a deep, well-considered, and far-reaching conspiracy. It is nothing less than the transfer of the entire strength of the Tammany and rebel elements of the Democracy to the editor of the Tribune. Mr. Greeley has been deep in these diabolical conspiracies for many years.

From the Ottawa (Kan.) Leader (Republican).

Preferences and partisan feelings lie buried, and a whole people lift an almost united voice in praise of the nominations. Reform is no longer a vision. It is a living certainty. The issues of the past have been healed, and a party now moves to victory in issues of the present. No men could have been selected who would rally about their banner more united support than Horace Greeley and Gratz Brown. The East and West have here clasped [illegible], and cheered by men of the South [illegible] forward to a certain and glorious [illegible]

From the Kansas City (Mo.) News (Democratic).

And so August Belmont, and a few others of the Democratic National Committee, have gotten together in the Grand Sachem's parlor in New York, and ordered a Convention of the party to meet in Baltimore on the 9th of July next, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Presidency. It was perhaps an easy matter for these gentlemen to agree upon this programme. It will be infinitely more difficult for the Democracy of the country to gratify their wishes. This man Belmont is working altogether in the interests of Grant, and if he can get [illegible] made at Baltimore which can receive any considerable support, he will have served Grant more effectually than Morton or any dozen Radicals in the land.

Now, who has demanded a Democratic Convention for the purpose stated by the Committee, or for any purpose whatever. Has the party anywhere signified a desire for one? Has a single State Convention asked for one? Has there been a single meeting held at any place in the whole country, which has requested one? Has the Democratic press of the country urged such a Convention? On the contrary, is it not absolutely true that the sentiment of the party throughout the entire land, is diametrically opposed to any such movement as this Committee seeks to inaugurate? A few sore-heads in New York, because they could not get Adams nominated, who would have answered their purpose in securing the re-election of Grant, now endeavor to thwart the Liberal movement, by forcing a Democratic ticket before the public. The great bulk of the party is entirely satisfied with the Cincinnati candidates, and intends to support them. Democrats do not need, nor do they want, the assistance of a convention to teach them their duty in this crisis. The honest Democrats of the country cannot be deceived by Belmont or by anybody else at this time. They have an intelligent sense of duty just now, and they intend to exercise such discretion in uniting upon Greeley and Brown as the only available ticket against Grant. The masses of the party cannot be sold to Wall street jobbers, nor lend themselves as instruments to their schemes, and, if they have the moral courage and resolution we believe they possess, Belmont and his Committee will constitute the strength and numerical force of the Convention.

From the Lawrence (Kan.) Standard (Democratic).

The Philadelphia Convention of collar-wearers had just as well not meet. The nomination of Greeley and Brown will be received with a wild shout of enthusiasm from one end of the land to the other, and they will be elected by a larger majority than was ever before given to candidates for the first places in the gift of the people. The campaign will be a war upon abuses, corruption, thieving, and dishonesty in public life, and the American people now have a glorious opportunity to protest against incompetency, incapability, and dishonesty in public affairs, and to put an end to them.

From the Topeka (Kan.) Record (Republican).

To say, as has already become the fashion in certain quarters, and by men who only look to policy for the inspiration of their utterances, that the ticket is inherently weak, is but to make an exhibition of the grovelling, [illegible] characteristics of those who so assert. It is a strong ticket. Should future action of leading Democratic journals, and of Democrats generally, be to give in their adherence to this ticket it will be a formidable opponent to the ticket to be put forth at Philadelphia by the regular organization of Republicans.

From the Mankato (Ill.) Union (Republican).

This great tidal wave of popular sentiment is the most formidable and pronounced revolution in the Republican party, the country has ever before witnessed. It is a revolt so great in extent that it takes on at the outset, the character of a belligerent fairly in the field, equipped for a struggle against a strong party, which has accomplished a great and noble work in the interest of humanity, but has lost in a great measure, the confidence of the people, during its last administration. That Mr. Greeley has a strong hold upon the people there can be no doubt, and those who attempt to sneer at his strength will find cause before long, we apprehend, to regard his nomination with seriousness and alarm. Let no friend of the Administration deceive himself in this matter. General Grant will not be permitted to walk over the course in November. He may beat Greeley, but if he does, as Harper said, in speaking of the rival of his favorite horse, Longfellow, he will have to run from "end to end." Much depends, of course, upon the action of the Democratic party. If they, as a party, carry out the desire as expressed by many of its influential leaders and papers, to unite with the Liberal Republicans, the result is not doubtful. Greeley will sweep the country.

From the Lyons (Iowa) Mirror (Administration).

That there are hosts of honest and well-meaning Republicans who will support Greeley, is undeniable; but that there is any sufficient reason for this bolt in advance, we do not at all believe. Whatever faults or wrongs exist in the Republican party, we are very positive, can be better remedied within than without the organization.

From the Marion (Ind.) Chronicle (Administration).

For the present we will only say that we have no sympathy for the movement. Its results cannot be foretold. If the Democratic party support Greeley, the contest between him and the Republican candidate will be close. But whether or not the Democrats will support him, is not fully determined. As the only principles of that party at this time are "How can we secure the spoils of office," it is not improbable that they will swallow old Greeley.

From the South Bend (Ind.) Register (Vice President Colfax's organ).

The whole movement was generated, and has been sedulously fostered, by a few ambitious demagogues, who fancied their individual influence sufficiently strong to create a wave on the summit of which they might be wafted to higher eminence and power. * * * The preamble which preceded the platform, for vindictiveness toward, and sweeping denunciation of, the President and all Republicans not arrayed beneath the Liberal banners, was worthy of George Francis Train, or Brick Pomeroy in his palmiest days. It reads very much like almost any editorial on the subject which has appeared of late in the columns of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

From the Maquoketa (Iowa) Excelsior (Republican).

Of the candidates of the Cincinnati Convention, it is needless to say much, as they are men well known to the whole country and have been identified with the Republican party since its organization. They are good men, able men, strong men, and had they been nominated by the Philadelphia Convention, would have received our hearty support. In fact, we can see no reason why we could not consistently support them, even with their informal nomination, though, at the present writing, we think we shall not.

From the Portage (Wis.) Register (Administration).

For Horace Greeley's devotion to the cause of perfect liberty, and antagonism to slavery in every form, he will ever command our respect. Indeed, there is nothing in his personal character, and but little in his long public service, to excite unfavorable criticism. His honesty and integrity, his patriotism, his innate love of justice, his kindness and benevolence—all these we freely concede. In the Presidential chair, his benign countenance, in times of perfect quiet, would radiate with the sunshine which is begotten of love and good will for his fellow man. In times of great trial and difficulty—times which would require an iron will and firm purpose—he would be as helpless as the most motherly of women. His honesty of purpose would not protect him from the snares of bad men into whose toils he would surely fall,—and his kindness and benevolence will make it all the easier for them to retain his confidence. We should as soon think of making General Grant editor-in-chief of the New York Tribune as voting for Horace Greeley for President of the United States.

From the Rochester (Minn.) Post (Administration).

If the Democratic leaders had ever, since the commencement of the rebellion, exhibited any political sagacity, we might expect them to support the Greeley ticket, in hopes of, at least, defeating Grant, but the most natural course for them to take will be to nominate some fossiliferous Democratic ticket, and then, relying on the Liberal defection of Republican votes to elect it for them, wake up after the votes are counted in November to find themselves "sold again."

From the Northwestern Celt (St. Paul).

Irishmen want an honest man as President, an uncompromising, faithful, trustworthy man, who is no peddling politician, a man who will mete out justice to all, irrespective of creed or nationality. In Mr. Greeley, we believe, as firmly as we know that the morrow's sun shall rise, we have such a man. Then let us, as Irishmen, regardless of past political differences, unite as one man, and go hand in hand for Greeley and Brown, who are advocates for liberty to all men and all nationalities, against the time-serving and half English administration that now exists at Washington.

We have placed the nominees of the Cincinnati Convention,—Horace Greeley for President, and B. Gratz Brown for Vice President,—at the head of our columns to-day, with a firm conviction and a consciousness of doing what is best for the interests of our adopted country. We have confidence enough in the good sense of our countrymen to know that they will, as one man, rally to the support of the standard we have hoisted.

From the Wabash (Ind.) Plain Dealer (Administration).

Mr. Greeley has always been regarded as an honest man, and nothing which he has ever done has ever shaken our confidence that he is so, except his willingness to stand as a candidate for the Presidency upon a platform which ignores the great principle which has distinguished his life as a journalist and a statesman, and which he has contended,—and we, with millions of others, believed him,—lies at the very root of our national prosperity. Of course it is unnecessary for us to say we mean Protection of American industry. This, together with his consent to take a place upon a ticket with a man who is, and all his life has been, an avowed enemy of Protection, has, we must confess, filled us with doubts.

From the New Albany (Ind.) Ledger (Democratic).

The advice we have heretofore ventured on this subject we still adhere to, and the duty of the Democracy is now more plain, that we should continue to favor the Greeley ticket, as between Mr. Greeley and the present occupant of the White House, our unreserved committal to the former ticket should only be given as an organized party by official utterance, except it is deemed wise to abandon the Democratic organization altogether.

From the Terre Haute (Ind.) Gazette (Republican).

With what kind of consistency can the men of color, in the coming campaign, cast their votes against Horace Greeley? Insensibility to such acts as he has performed, on the part of the colored men of this country, must certainly shake the confidence of the world in their capacity to govern themselves. Ingratitude of this kind can hardly find a parallel in the history of any race of men. An ingrate is hardly fit to be a free man.

Suppose the great influence of the New York Tribune, before and during the war, had been exerted in favor of human slavery, is it not a question if slavery would have been abolished? Upon those great issues, suppose Horace Greeley had stood where U. S. Grant stood before the war, and where he is known to have stood during most of the progress of that war, can any one say that all in this country would to-day be free and independent men? There is no man in the Republic to whom the colored men of the country owe so much as to Horace Greeley.

From the South Bend (Ind.) Tribune (another Colfax organ).

If a straight Democratic ticket is made at Baltimore it will receive the full strength of the Democratic vote, while the Cincinnati nominees will get the votes of those Republicans who are not opposed to the Republican party, but are inimical to Grant. How large that vote will be, it is just now impossible to determine. It may not have the strength of a corporal's guard; it may be the means of defeating the Republican party.

It would be prudent, therefore, in the Philadelphia Convention, to survey the field carefully and see how our lines may be best strengthened against these attacks. We believe Grant is one of the best Presidents the nation has ever had, as he was one of its best Generals, but our regard for men can never swerve us from devotion to the principles of the Republican party, and we look upon the predominance of that party as of the most vital importance. If the Philadelphia Convention nominate Grant we shall gladly support him with whatever ability and influence we possess; but if, on assembling, it finds that we are not to have harmony with Grant as the nominee, then we say, make a ticket which will guarantee success.

The Convention would have no trouble in finding men for such a ticket, and would but accord to the heartfelt wishes of a large majority of the Republican party in placing the name of Schuyler Colfax at the head of it. With him as our standard bearer, we could go into the conflict confident of a glorious victory. With Colfax as the Republican nominee for President, the party would have only the Democracy to fight, for, with but one exception, all disaffected Republicans who took part in the Cincinnati Convention are friendly to Colfax, and would flock back into the ranks and work as willingly and courageously for a Republican victory as the best of us.

We have watched the current of feeling in favor of Mr. Colfax, and we know that it is genuine, and that it has grown rapidly in the last few months. Newspapers from almost every portion of the country, reflecting the views of their readers, have expressed a preference for him, and our State Convention would have done so (and many others would have followed it) had he not urgently pressed it not to, as he was himself in favor of Grant's renomination, but more than all feared that such a movement would disrupt the party, and he had no higher aspirations than to contribute to its harmony and success. * * * He is the one great leader in the Republican party who can marshal its hosts under a united banner and lead them to the greatest victory that any political party ever achieved.

From the Macomb (Ill.) Eagle (Democratic).

The Springfield (Ill.) Journal says:

> We speak with knowledge, when we declare that many of these honest Democrats will vote for Grant sooner than for the Republican nominee of the heterogeneous Cincinnati Convention. And we venture to say that for every malevolent Republican who votes that ticket, we will have for the Philadelphia nominee at least a dozen sober-minded Democrats, who have long felt that the party managers were leading them into a false position, a position at variance with anti-slavery principles of Jefferson and the intense patriotism of Jackson.

Not a bit of it! The Democracy don't propose to keep the corrupt set of thieves and outlaws in office, and if necessary, they will support Greeley a thousand times in order to put an end to the corrupt party now in power. The Democracy will not support Grant under any circumstances, but will work like blazes to beat him. If the race is narrowed down to Greeley and Grant, we have no hesitancy in saying we are for Greeley, and so will be the Democratic party, East, West, North, and South.

From the Steubenville (O.) Gazette (Democratic).

These nominations strike terror to the Grantites, and convinces the Great Gift Taker that his days in the White House will end on the 4th of March next. The Liberal Republicans could not have made nominations that would have been more universally popular from Maine to Louisiana than that of Greeley and Brown.

From the Mercer County (O.) Standard (Democratic).

If we had had our choice for the Presidency, Trumbull would have been our man over all others. However, as between Greeley and Grant we would much prefer Greeley, because he is honest and capable, and Grant is not.

From the Urbana (O.) [illegible] (Democratic).

This is too early a day for us to say positively what we will do in the coming campaign. If the Democratic National Convention nominates another and better man than Horace Greeley, we will adhere to our allegiance to Democracy and support him. But should they put a candidate into the field in whom we could not find the character and spirit of a gentleman and a statesman, we will certainly lend our support to Greeley.

From the Lebanon (O.) Patriot (Democratic).

Should there be no other candidate but Greeley in opposition to Grant, we will undoubtedly vote for Greeley. Greeley in case of an emergency, but Grant under no consideration whatever is our motto.

From the Holmes County (O.) Farmer (Democratic).

If the Convention says a straight Democrat, we are for him; if it says Greeley, we will forget the past, and go for "Old Whitey" and Reform.

From the Wheeling (W. Va.) Intelligencer (Republican).

We must nominate at Philadelphia without knowing whether the Democrats will make nominations or take the Cincinnati ticket. If we nominate Grant and they then take Greeley, the mischief will be past undoing. No reconciliation will be possible, and seriously, we should feel little hope of success. But if the Philadelphia nominee should be Henry Wilson, or Schuyler Colfax, or Chas. Francis Adams, or Geo. S. Boutwell, or Horace Greeley himself, all dissensions in the party would be healed and the machinations of the Democracy might be defied. While we warmly admire and respect Mr. Greeley, while we have confidence in the patriotism of his purposes in his present position, we should not like to see him elected over the nominee of the Philadelphia Convention under the circumstances that must necessarily attend such an election, and we can but hope that body will be wise enough to take away the occasion for his candidacy. At the same time, we should not expect the Philadelphia Convention to nominate him; nor, under the circumstances, should we consider it judicious in them to do so.

From the Messager Franco-Americain (French).

We may not so easily forget the ignoble and odious role he played during the Franco Prussian war. Mr. Greeley has applauded all the acts of brigandage which had for their object the reduction of our unhappy country to the last extreme of misery. He rejoiced at the fall of Strasbourg; he felicitated at the capitulation of Paris; he declared the robbery of Alsace and Lorraine as a just measure. He has abjured all his principles to please the German party, and this party has made him a candidate for President of the United States. Yes, Mr. Greeley is the candidate of the Prussian party. The Cincinnati Convention, presided over by Mr. Schurz, drew its principal force from the Teutonic element, and we have no doubt that if ever Mr. Greeley is elected President of the United States, it will be due to the influence of the compatriots of William and Bismarck.

From the Boston Journal (Administration).

Sooner or later this campaign will come down to an unavoidable alternative between Republican and Democratic success. In that juncture, it will be for every man, wherever he may be found at the time, who really cherishes Republican principles in his heart, to decide whether he shall sacrifice them by opposing the Republican nominee at the polls. We trust, therefore, that throughout the remainder of the Congress session, no discrimination will be made by Republican Senators in their treatment of Messrs. Trumbull, Schurz, and Tipton. As to the tone of the Republican press, those who have engaged in this Liberal movement are not children, and they will expect the plain, manly dealing justified by their course. We must contend for our principles, at all events, and train our guns according to the position of oncoming enemies; but we have no wish or intention to be unjust, especially toward those who ought to be in our own ranks, and may yet be found there.

From the Champaign (Ill.) Union (Administration).

It was expected that a man would be nominated whose record was sufficiently conservative to unite the Democracy with the disaffected Republican element. This they utterly and totally failed to do. While there is a bold front put upon it by such newspapers as THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and the action of the Convention heralded a success, yet among the people the whole affair is pronounced a stupendous failure. Many are looking to the action of the National Democratic Convention. Whatever that action may be it will have no effect upon the result next November. If the leaders of that party indorse the Cincinnati nominations the masses will not; if they nominate a partizan candidate, he will meet the same fate that all their other candidates have for these many years past.

From the Elgin (Ill.) Advocate (Republican).

Reform is the watchword of this great and advancing column of freemen; and to combat this sentiment we now hear weak and meaningless cries of party alone. Honestly avowing that we voted for General Grant at the last Presidential election, and here entering the additional avowal that, in opposing his election now, we disclaim all hostility to our party, the great Republican organization of this country, we claim that our efforts, be they feeble or forcible, shall be made with the sole object in view of purifying the oppressive and filthy atmosphere that is stifling our political life, and choking the honest masses of the Republican party.

And now, excepting only in one contingency, to these gentlemen we pledge the support of the Advocate, be it feeble or forcible. That contingency is the nomination by the Republican Convention at Philadelphia of a man who will combine the honesty of purpose and broad and liberal ideas on which the Republican party was founded. Should the present Administration cabal be defeated in that Convention, and should it adopt a platform as sound as the Cincinnati platform, which, among other admirable pronouncements, rendered to the several Congressional Districts the duty of selecting Free Trade or Protection candidates, then would our fealty to the old party once more summon us to its aid. As it is, Greeley and Gratz Brown are flying the flag of Reform and Economy. The people elsewhere are flocking to their standard. Money and power may be allied against the people, yet they are all powerful. They are bound to make an end of corruption and corruptionists this time. The storm of opinion is gathering, and the last uprising only requires the "Forward, March!" of the movement, to burst into an assault that will rock and rend to its foundation the temple of corruption.

From the Galena (Ill.) Gazette (Administration).

Some very good and well meaning men were drawn into the movement; but, looking at the matter at this distance of time, there can be no question, among all fair-minded men, that, as a Convention no more disreputable concern has been gotten up in the memory of the present generation. * * * The Andrew Johnson's bread and butter brigade at Philadelphia were Incorruptibles beside the mess at Cincinnati.

From the Hartford (Conn.) Post (Republican).

There can be no question that there is a very serious split in the Republican ranks, growing originally out of dissatisfaction with measures of General Grant's Administration. The course of many of the most prominent supporters of the President have been such as to drive those who criticised further and further from him. Yet there have been some wiser friends of the President, such as Colfax, Wilson, Beecher, and Curtis, who have deprecated this heated abuse of those Republicans who opposed the President. Had their counsels been heeded sooner, and General Grant exercised the conciliatory methods toward them which Mr. Lincoln so well understood, the party might still have been a unit. Yet, with military obstinacy that suited him well as a General in the army, but that less becomes a ruler of a great nation, the President has persisted in ignoring the counsels of his wisest friends and refused to seek to conciliate any opponents. Hence his renomination at Philadelphia will, beyond question, drive away thousands of Republicans who desire Civil Service reform in deed as well as in name, who wish to see carpet-bag rule ended at the South, and who hope for a larger statesmanship and greater breadth of view than General Grant has ever exhibited. A majority of these men as yet keep silence, hoping that they may not have to sever their connection with a party whose past record is very dear to them. Yet they cannot and will not support General Grant. It certainly seems as if the wisest course for those who desire to maintain the Republican organization would be to abandon the renomination of General Grant, to incorporate Civil Service Reform in their platform, and make Congress live up to its [illegible]. By this course it may be possible to reunite the masses of Republicans. By any other course it is impossible, and the Cincinnati nominations may yet prove by far the strongest before the country.

From the Lafayette (Ind.) Dispatch (Democratic).

A little more than a week has elapsed since the nomination of Horace Greeley by the Cincinnati Convention, and yet in that short period of time he has developed a strength that conclusively proves that, notwithstanding his heretofore bitter antagonism to the Democratic party, he has a hold upon it that has astonished the Bourbon leaders, and driven many of them to indicate a willingness to support the Cincinnati ticket. Why is this? Simply because a large portion of the party are well satisfied that the chances of the success of a straight-out Democratic ticket are so uncertain that it is not wise to try the experiment.

The Democratic party are heartily tired of Grant, and will make any reasonable sacrifice to secure his defeat. If it shall appear that the making of Democratic nominations at Baltimore will secure the re-election of Grant, the masses of the Democratic party cannot be used to accomplish such a purpose, a fact which it may be well for the New York World and Mr. Belmont to take notice.

From the Effingham (Ill.) Register (Republican).

It is with no common pleasure that we hoist, this week, the names of Horace Greeley and B. Gratz Brown for President and Vice President. They are so well and so favorably known to the people of the United States, and their nomination has been so enthusiastically received, that they need no extended eulogium from us. * * * For ourselves, we fully believe that the Greeley ticket ought to be elected if the American people want economy and reform in the Government and a reduction of the taxes. To this end we shall now faithfully work until the election, and ask the earnest co-operation of every one who is anxious to secure the same object. * * *

Some of our Grant friends are very wroth with us for not being willing to support Grant, contrary to our convictions, and have stopped their paper—but have not stopped us! What would they have us do? If we feel, as do millions of others, that Grant ought not to be re-elected, for what seems to us good reasons, should we suppress our convictions, be hypocritical, and continue to hurrah for Grant? That would be nice! The world is too full of that already. What is a newspaper good for, if its owner or editor is to be so tied up to party that he dare not advocate what he believes is for the best interests of the people? Such a journal must always do more mischief than good, for the reason that it is often required to shield corruption, support bad men, and mislead the public.

From the Nashville (Tenn.) Union and American (Democratic).

We regret to learn that there has been a persistent move made by some of the Northwestern Democratic politicians to have Judge Davis nominated by the National Democratic Convention. It is very evident, from the developments of the last week, that the nominations made at Cincinnati are decidedly the strongest in the South which the Liberal Republicans could have made. The cordiality with which that ticket has been received by the Southern people has been astonishing to the most sanguine friends of the movement. As devoted as the Democracy are to the maintenance of party organization, not even the nomination of Judge Davis by the National Convention could rally to the support of that ticket the United Democracy of the South. The Southern Democracy not only prefer Greeley to Grant, but they prefer Greeley to any [illegible] Republican. We take it that the words spoken by the Tennessee Democracy in Convention will blast all schemes for nominating Judge Davis or Mr. Adams by the Baltimore Convention.

From the Elgin (Ill.) Gazette (Republican).

We are not among those who fear the strength of Greeley, but there is no use in attempting to disguise the existence of a [illegible] feeling of discontent and discomfort in the body of the Republican party. Men whose principles and motives are unquestionable, do not hesitate to suggest that a new man—another besides Grant—might be placed at the head of the Union party who would be more likely to lead us successfully through the great impending campaign.

On the first and second choice for the Presidency is General U. S. Grant, a soldier and a statesman, but if the leading men of the party, after giving the subject the careful consideration it demands, decide to nominate another, we shall cheerfully and earnestly support him. Such a contingency is not among the impossibilities, if the Washington managers are correct, and if Grant is put aside to give place to some one else, we want to express our preference. Next to General Grant there does not live a man in this broad land who would so ably and so acceptably fill the Presidential chair as the distinguished and accomplished gentleman and statesman who holds the position of Speaker of the House of Representatives. We mean James G. Blaine, of Maine. On the ticket with Speaker Blaine, we should like to see nominated for the Vice Presidency Hon. James F. Wilson, of Iowa, or Mayor Joseph Medill, of Chicago, two able men whom their respective States delight to honor with their confidence and esteem.

THE TAX AND TARIFF BILL.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The House has practically wasted a day on the Tariff bill, owing in great measure to the extreme perversity and obstinacy of General Beatty, the member from the Eighth Ohio District, who, because he was not allowed by the House five minutes in which to advocate a higher duty on wool, occupied hours in dilatory and useless motions and amendments which, though frequently in a minority of one, he had the power under the rules to offer. Repeatedly Beatty's vote was the only one of the whole House sustaining his motion, nevertheless he would insist on a formal division and count of the members, the result after being 150 to 1. Beside Beatty's, a number of amendments were offered when his importunity relaxed, but as a rule they were all voted down, except those of Messrs. Dawes and Burchard, adding respectively sized printing paper and steel, and all its manufactures, to the 10 per cent list. The entire day has been occupied on the second, or 10 per cent section of the bill, and the pending question on adjournment was the substitution of an amended section containing the additions just named, together with lumber and iron wire and ship cordage for the original text of the section. No debate being permitted, this will probably be done without serious difficulty to-morrow, provided General Beatty's factious opposition can be suppressed. The friends of the bill hope to make more rapid progress as soon as the second section is disposed of, but to-day's proceedings show that although all debate on the bill has been ordered closed on Thursday at 4 o'clock, the voting on amendments may delay final action indefinitely.

THE HUBBARD RAMSEY POSTAL TELEGRAPH BILL has been assigned for Thursday evening in the Senate. The friends of the measure, which has been essentially modified and improved since it was first presented to the Senate, are hopeful that they may secure favorable action this session, having canvassed the Senate, and finding only Thurman and Conkling intending to oppose it.

FINANCIAL.

The House Committee on Banking and Currency this morning decided to report Mr. Merriam's bill providing for the retirement of the outstanding three per cent certificates, and the issue in their place of an equal amount of legal tender notes. The Committee also voted to postpone, indefinitely, the bill lately introduced by Fernando Wood, designed to prevent lock-ups of currency, by means of loans of coin and currency to the Sub-Treasurers in the principal cities.

NAVAL.

The House Committee on Naval Affairs is rapidly clearing its decks for an early adjournment, having held three meetings within the past two days. The Chairman has been directed to report on the first opportunity the bill, introduced early in the session by General Banks, authorizing the construction of ten sloops of war, and an effort will be made to pass the bill during the present session. It is understood to be the intention of the Navy Department to construct at least five or six of these vessels in private ship yards.

THE COTTON TAX.

The Committee of Ways and Means, this morning, decided to postpone until next December the further consideration of the bill to refund the cotton tax collected in the Southern States after the close of the rebellion. The Sub-Committee to whom the matter was referred have reported favorably on the bill and a majority of the full Committee agree with them.

THE POSTAL APPROPRIATION BILL,

containing the subsidy to the Pacific Mail and Brazil Steamship Companies, will be considered by the House Committee on Appropriations to-morrow. The agents of the companies are moving every means to achieve success, and it is reported are distributing promises of money for votes with more than wonted liberality. An effort will be made to restore the subsidy to the Australian line, W. H. Webb, its chief proprietor, who has just returned from Australia, being now in the city endeavoring to promote this result.

AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

The advance sheets of the agricultural volume of the census appeared to-day. It is pronounced the finest specimen of rule and column work ever executed by the Government Printing Office. Its arrangement is one of the new features of this census, to which the officers in charge have devoted great attention.

PRIVATIONS OF EMIGRANTS—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The President to-day sent the following message to the Senate and House of Representatives:

In my message to Congress at the beginning of the present session allusion was made to the hardships and privations inflicted on poor emigrants on shipboard, and upon arrival on our shores; and the suggestion was made favoring national legislation for the purpose of effecting a radical cure of the evil. The promise was made that a special message on the subject would be presented during the present session, should information be received warranting it. I now transmit to the two Houses of Congress all that has been officially received since that time bearing on the subject, and recommend that such legislation be had as will secure, first, such room and accommodation on shipboard as is necessary for health and comfort, such privacy as will not compel emigrants to be unwilling witnesses of so much vice and misery; and second, legislation to protect them on their arrival at our seaports from the knaves who are ever ready to despoil them of the little they are able to bring with them. Such legislation will be in the interest of humanity, and seems to be fully justifiable. An immigrant is not a citizen of any State or Territory on his arrival, but comes here to become a citizen of the Great Republic, free to change his residence at will, to enjoy the blessings of a protecting Government, where all are equal before the law, and to add to the national wealth by his industry. On his arrival he does not know States or corporations, but confides implicitly in the protecting arm of the great, free country, of which he has heard so much before leaving his native land. It is a source of serious disappointment and discouragement to those who start with means insufficient to support them comfortably until they can choose a residence and begin employment for comfortable support, to find themselves subject to ill-treatment and every discomfort on their passage here, and, at the end of their journey, to be seized on by professed friends, claiming a legal right to take charge of them for their protection, who do not leave them until all their resources are exhausted, when they are abandoned in a strange land, surrounded by strangers, without employment, and ignorant of the means of securing it. Under the present system this is the fate of thousands annually, the exposure on shipboard and the treatment on landing driving thousands to lives of vice and shame, who, with proper humane treatment, might have become useful and respectable members of society. I do not advise national legislation in affairs that should be regulated by States, but I see no subject more national in its character than a provision for the safety and welfare of the thousands who leave foreign lands to become citizens of this republic. When their residence is chosen they may then look to the laws of their locality for protection and guidance. The mass of immigrants arriving on our shores, coming, as they do, on vessels under foreign flags, makes treaties with nations furnishing these immigrants necessary for their complete protection. For more than two years efforts have been made on our part to secure such treaties, and there is now reasonable ground to hope for success.

THE ROUMANIAN PERSECUTIONS.

In response to the Senate resolution of 28th March, the President to-day transmitted to the Senate the official correspondence in regard to the persecution and oppression of Israelites in Roumania. M. Pierxotto, American Consul at Bucharest, in a letter addressed to Secretary Fish, under date October 6, 1871, says: "The action of our Government concerning the persecution of the Jews has realized, thus far, the moral influence it was hoped my appointment and acceptance of the position would exercise. While it has been impossible to restrain the prejudices fostered by designing men, mostly for political ends, and in many instances for purposes of robbery, every attempt at open violence has been promptly quelled, and effective measures taken to prevent outrages." In a letter dated February 6, 1872, the Consul writes that accounts had reached Bucharest of deplorable scenes of recent occurrence in several towns of Bessenalian Roumania, and especially at Ismail, Vilcora and Cobul, where the population rushed on the Israelites, devastated their homes and shed their blood. Hundreds had fled across the Danube for refuge in Turkey. Under date of April 19, 1872, Mr. Pierxotto writes again, stating that all the foreign representatives at Bucharest, except the Russian, had signed an address to the Government of Prince Charles, saying they had learned with profound regret that, after having condemned several Israelites to severe penalties, the prosecution of whom was abandoned by the public Ministry itself, the Court of Assizes of Basio had acquitted all individuals who were charged with committing the gravest crimes against the Jewish population of Vilcoore. The address continues: "We see in this double verdict an indication of the dangers to which Israelites are exposed in Roumania, the imminence of which, at the approach of the Easter holidays, justified the steps recently taken by us simultaneously near the Government of the Prince. The Governments of the undersigned will judge whether the impunity which has been enjoyed by the assailants of Jews is not of a nature to encourage the repetition of scenes of violence quite unworthy of a civilized country, which as such ought to insure freedom and security to all religious denominations." Secretary Fish, under date of 13th of May, 1872, in acknowledging the receipt of Pierxottos' despatch of the 19th of April, 1872, accompanied by a copy of the remonstrance above referred to says: "The Department approves your taking part in the remonstrance. Whatever caution and reserve may usually characterize the policy of this Government in such matters may be regarded as inexpedient, when every guarantee and consideration by justice appears to have been set at defiance in the course pursued with reference to the unfortunate people referred to. You will not be backward in joining any similar protest or other measure which foreign representatives there may deem advisable with a view to avert or mitigate further harshness toward the Israelites resident in or subjects of the principality."

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 14.

CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE INDIAN TERRITORY.

Mr. TRUMBULL called up the bill to establish a District Court in the Indian Territory.

Mr. NYE offered an amendment, designed, he said, to reorganize that whole Territory, and argued in favor of it until the expiration of the morning hour, when came up as unfinished business. The pending question was on Mr. Trumbull's amendment adding the Amnesty bill.

THE BILL TO AMEND THE ENFORCEMENT ACT

Mr. MORTON opposed the amendment because, if adopted, it would probably kill the bill.

Mr. EDWARDS warned the friends of the Enforcement bill that, if they should vote to amend it by adding the Amnesty bill, the friends of amnesty would probably attempt then to strike out the original bill, and keep the Amnesty bill.

After some discussion, Mr. TRUMBULL moved to amend the pending amendment by adding the Supplemental Civil Rights bill. [Laughter.] Mr. Trumbull said he would vote against the amendment himself, but he offered it for the purpose of discovering who were its real friends, and who were merely using it as a means of defeating amnesty.

Mr. SUMNER said he too would vote against the amendment, because it was moved with evil intent. [Laughter.]

Mr. CARPENTER said he was against all amendments, and in favor of the Enforcement bill.

Mr. MORTON said he had shown by his votes, from time to time, that he was a friend of the Civil Rights bill, but when, as now, it was moved by one of its enemies and for the purpose avowed, he would vote against it.

The amendment was rejected—yeas, 6; nays, 50.

Mr. ALCORN protested against tacking the Amnesty bill on to any other bill.

The motion to add the Amnesty bill was rejected—yeas, 22; nays, 23.

Mr. SUMNER then offered his Civil Rights bill as an amendment.

Mr. BOREMAN moved to strike out all relating to schools, benevolent institutions, and cemeteries.

After debate, Mr. HAMLIN and Mr. SHERMAN appealed to Mr. Sumner to withdraw his amendment, and he withdrew it.

Mr. MORTON offered an amendment providing that in cities of 20,000 inhabitants or more, the Supervisors of Election provided for in the bill shall receive compensation. Agreed to.

Mr. CASSERLY moved an amendment reducing the fees of Supervisors and Deputy Marshals 50 per cent. Lost.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT.

The VICE PRESIDENT laid before the Senate a message from the President recommending legislation for the protection of immigrants; also, a message transmitting correspondence in relation to the persecutions in Roumania.

THE ENFORCEMENT ACT AGAIN.

Mr. CASSERLY offered an amendment to the Enforcement bill providing that appointments of Supervisors and Deputy Marshals under the act shall be made only in writing, and on the written recommendation of not less than twenty voters of the precinct. Lost.

Mr. CASSERLY offered an amendment providing that no Supervisor, or Deputy, or Marshal appointed under the act shall have authority to call out troops or militia. Lost.

Mr. CASSERLY offered an amendment providing that no person shall be appointed Supervisor who is not a qualified voter in the district or precinct for which he is appointee; or Deputy Marshal who is not a qualified voter where he resides. Agreed to.

The bill was then passed, by a vote of 30 to 17.

KU-KLUX BILL.

On motion of Mr. SCOTT, the Senate then took up the bill to extend until the 4th of March, 1873, the time within which the President may suspend the writ of habeas corpus.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

The bill was laid aside, and the Senate took up the report of the Committee of Conference on the Deficiency bill. The question of concurring in the report was discussed until half-past 4, when the Senate took a recess until 7:30 p. m.

EVENING SESSION.

BILLS PASSED.

The evening session having been assigned for the consideration of bills reported from the Committee on Commerce, the following bills were passed: Granting right of way to the Davenport & St. Paul Railroad; To authorize the Secretary of War to accept the peninsula in Lake Erie, opposite Erie, Pa.; to amend the act to regulate the foreign and coasting trade on the Northern, Northeastern, and Northwestern frontiers and for other purposes; for the better preservation of harbors, havens, channels of navigable rivers and other navigable waters in the United States, authorizing the City of Buffalo to construct a tunnel under the Niagara River, and to erect and maintain an inlet pier therefrom for the supplying of the city with pure water; authorizing the construction of a railroad bridge across the Ohio River, at Mount Vernon, Ind.

The bill to amend the act to provide for the better security of life on board vessels propelled in whole or part by steam was considered in Committee of the Whole [illegible] to the Senate, but not passed.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

RESIGNED.

The Speaker presented a letter announcing the resignation of Mr. Brooks, of Massachusetts.

PENSION BILLS.

Several pension bills and the bill codifying the pension laws passed.

NAVAL APPROPRIATION BILL.

The House then took up and disposed of the Senate amendments to the Naval Appropriation bill, and ordered a Conference Committee on the disagreeing votes.

TARIFF AND TAX BILL.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Tariff and Tax bill. The first hour of the session of the Committee was wasted in voting on a whole sheaf of amendments offered in succession by Mr. Beatty, in regard to the duty on wool, in each of which a division was called for, the affirmative votes being generally confined to those of Mr. Beatty and his colleague, Mr. Bingham.

Mr. DAWES appealed to Mr. Beatty to state on what conditions he would be willing to let the public business proceed, but

Mr. FARNSWORTH objected to debate, discussion on the second section having been closed by order of the House.

On motion of Mr. BUCKLEY, the item of iron and iron manufactures was amended by striking out the words "excepting cotton machinery."

Mr. BROOKS moved a proviso that no article in the section shall pay a higher duty than 65 per cent ad valorem. Rejected—60 to 83.

Mr. DAWES moved to strike the following item out of the second section: "On all metals not herein otherwise provided for, and all manufactures of metals." Rejected—52 to 73.

Mr. DAWES moved to include in the second section all sized printing paper, so as to reduce the present rate of duty by 10 per cent.

Mr. BURCHARD moved to strike out the word "sized." Agreed to—76 to 60.

Mr. DAWES' amendment, as thus amended, was agreed to.

Mr. DAWES moved to include within the second section all lumber and manufactures of lumber.

Mr. BROOKS objected to taking lumber out of its place in the bill, where the duty is reduced 50 per cent, and putting it where it is to be reduced only 10 per cent, but the objection was overruled. Another objection made and overruled was, that when the House had closed debate on the second section, it had not been contemplated that the different items would be transposed from other portions of the bill, and that there should be no opportunity to discuss them.

After the amendent had been modified in various particulars, Mr. DAWES withdrew it.

Mr. BURCHARD moved to include in the second section all steel and all manufacturers of steel. Agreed to,—66 to 64.

Mr. DAWES moved to add to the item of all metals and manufactures, the words excepting watches, jewelry, and other articles of ornament, so as not to include them in the reduction. Agreed to.

Mr. SARGENT moved to add to the second section that all wire rope and wire strand made of iron wire, shall bear the same rate duty now levied on iron wire. Agreed to.

Mr. COX moved to exempt from duty all wire rope used in mining or in rigging for ships. Rejected.

RECESS.

After a long and ineffectual effort to agree on the substitute for the second section, the Committee rose, without having disposed of the section, and the House took a recess until 7:30 p. m., the evening session to be for business of the Judiciary Committee.

EVENING SESSION.

FRAUDS ON IMMIGRANTS.

In the House this evening, the SPEAKER announced a message from the President, calling the attention of Congress to the hardships and privations endured by immigrants.

Mr. BROOKS (N. Y.) said that so far as the message referred to the treatment of immigrants in New York, the President must have been sadly misinformed. He deeply regretted that a document should go forth from the Chief Magistrate which was calculated to discourage rather than promote immigration. The exhibition of such a lugubrious picture was certainly calculated to discourage immigration.

Mr. BINGHAM remarked that the President had not, perhaps, the benefit of the instruction and information which Mr. Brooks had, but it was undoubtedly the President's duty to bring to the attention of Congress such information as he had. Instead of discouraging immigration it would only notify all the world that persons coming to these shores would be taken notice of by the Chief Magistrate of the nation, and that complaints of their ill-treatment would be attended to.

Mr. BUTLER (Mass.) said he was very glad the President had directed attention both at home and abroad to the fact that hereafter immigrants would be the wards of the nation, and would be taken care of by the nation, instead of being left to be the victims of any wrong doing on the part of individual States.

The message, with the accompanying documents, was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

The Protestant Episcopalians.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The Eighty-eighth Annual Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Pennsylvania, commenced this afternoon, at St. Andrew's Church. It was attended by a large number of clergymen and lay deputies. On a call of the roll 99 clergymen answered to their names. The attendance of lay deputies was small. Bishop Stevens presided, and Rev. Dr. Childs acted as Secretary. The usual standing Committees were appointed. This evening Bishop Stevens delivered an address, giving an account of his recent visitation of the churches in Europe. The Convention will resume its sittings to-morrow.

The Huston Scandal Case.

BALTIMORE, May 14.—In the Superior Court this morning counsel for Rev. Dr. Huston filed a declaration in the libel suit brought by Huston against the proprietors of the Baltimore American, laying damages at $100,000. The Committee appointed by the Church are about commencing an investigation of the charges against Dr. Huston.

THE WORKINGMEN.

The Public Demonstration in Chicago To-Day.

Progress of the Carpenters' and Joiners' Strike in New York City.

Preparations by Other Trades-Unions to Join in the Movement.

Latest Concerning the Mining Troubles in the Superior Region.

In Chicago.

To-day the members of the trades-unions will have their demonstration—a day of "recreation," as many of their number term it—and its result is awaited with anxiety by all interested in the rebuilding of Chicago. The master-builders and employers generally anticipate a strike for eight hours. The workmen, however, maintain that there will be no such demand. They are in favor of lessening the hours of labor, but claim that they cannot strike for it until the National Union has given them permission. To obtain the essential consent would require six weeks time. A reporter of THE TRIBUNE conversed with a number of the different tradesmen yesterday, but could not ascertain from any of them what the leaders of the Unions have in view. The men profess ignorance of their intentions, saying, "If there is to be a strike, we know nothing of it. We are to have a day of recreation, and show our strength." One intelligent bricklayer became very confidential, and assured our reporter that they (the bricklayers) had the bosses "on the hip," and could bring them to terms if there was a strike. He, however, disclaimed any knowledge of such a proceeding.

Efforts made to induce the non-union men to participate have been but partially successful. Committees from the Unions have waited upon them, and many have determined to quit work to-day. The larger portion of them will not march in the procession, but will not labor, because apprehensive that they may be assaulted by turbulent men in the line.

All the members of the Unions which turn out to-day told their employers when they ceased work yesterday afternoon that they intended to take a holiday. The majority of the bosses said "all right," but quite a number told the men if they were not on hand at 7 o'clock this morning their places would be filled by others. What effect this will have upon them cannot be known until the hour for commencing work this morning.

It was generally asserted by the officers of the unions that no interference with men at work in the burnt district would be tolerated; that, if any disturbance occurred, the agressors would be immediately handed over to the police.

Many of the men complained of the way in which the newspapers had misrepresented and vilified them, while others were glad that they had been "pitched into," for the reason that it has caused hundreds of men to join the Unions. "Why," said one man, "we have had more men join us since the newspapers commenced abusing us than in a whole year before. Hammer away, and there wont be a non-Union man in the city." The man who said this appeared to be a sensible person, and may have been telling the truth. There is no doubt that the Unions have received large accessions during the last month, and have now a majority of the working men enrolled on their books. There is considerable dissatisfaction among them, that is, they don't all pull the same way, and there being so many nationalities represented, it is an exceedingly difficult undertaking to harmonize them.

It is useless to speculate as to what the result of the demonstration will be. If the eight-hour movement is at the bottom of it, the workmen may be disappointed. The employers have united, and have determined what course to take. The assertion that a strike will "break every boss in the city," is absurd, as all building will cease before unjust concessions will be made to demagogues who "owl" and attempt to lead the workingman by the nose.

The composition of the procession and the line of march were given in yesterday's TRIBUNE, and it is, therefore, unnecessary to repeat them. Among those who will address the men at the conclusion of the march through the streets are Mayor Medill, Police Commissioner Talcott, and Mr. Trevellick, of the National Trade-Union.

THE BOSS CARPENTERS.

There was a meeting of boss carpenters in the Exchange Building yesterday afternoon. In the absence of the temporary President, Mr. Middleton was elected Chairman. The Committee appointed at a previous meeting to draft a Constitution and By-Laws submitted a report, which was adopted.

There being but few "bosses" present, the election of officers was deferred until the first regular meeting.

The Association adjourned after the names of those present had been affixed to the Constitution and By-Laws.

THE CLOTHING CUTTERS.

There was a meeting of the Clothing Cutters' Union at No. 217 West Adams street, last evening, and those present determined to take part in the procession to-day. Non-union men will also participate, and, therefore, no work will be done by the trade to-day.

In New York.

Special Despatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The carpenters are making steady headway in their strike. Twenty or thirty additional bosses gave in to-day, making, in all, over one hundred that have yielded. Over a hundred men were admitted to the order yesterday, and about half as many to-day. The majority of the bosses refuse to give a final answer until after their meeting to-morrow night. Strikers, to the number of about five hundred, reassembled at Masonic Hall this morning. A Committee, appointed to visit certain shops in which workmen declined to enter the strike, made the following report, in substance: They had executed their commission, generally with success. In none of the shops had they found more than half a dozen or so of hands who were unwilling to strike. In some they experienced considerable difficulty in getting inside the shops to talk with the men at all. The bosses seemed determined to prevent them. In all of them the men had listened to reason, and had agreed to stop work, some of them at once, and others at 12 o'clock. One man only had declined to join with them, and he was one that had been driven out of Brooklyn by his fellow-craftsmen for persisting in working during the Brooklyn strike. When carpenters there got what they wanted, they made Brooklyn too hot to hold him, and he had sneaked in over here, and was doing what he could to defeat their efforts. In view of this, Mr. Rogers moved that a Committee of twenty-five be appointed to visit him and put terror into his head, so that he won't come over to this side to interfere with us again. Another member of the reporting Committee, Mr Black, thought if the Committee went at him right, they might scare him into it.

The Committee on the Crosby street shop reported that a society man, Mr. Maginnis, was working ten hours a day for $4. This excited much wrath. A member announced himself as one who would join with two or three others and "put a head" on the traitor. The Chair suggested that the society had sufficient power to punish erring members within itself.

The Committee to Beriam's shop reported that only two persisted in working there. One of them took time to consider the strike, while the other said if he stopped it would be to be carried out a corpse.

The Secretary here announced, amid great enthusiasm, that fourteen new candidates for initiation into the association had presented themselves, and he would perform the ceremony at once.

Another Committee then reported that they had visited eight shops to confer with the bosses, with the following results: Henry's, in Thirty-first street, declined to accede. Lulam, in Lexington avenue, McKenzie & McPherson, in Forty-first street, Howard & Maeder would accede. Ryker, in Cliff street, would have to give in while a job that he had in hand lasted, but after that he would close his shop first.

The Chairman then introduced John Browning, President of the Bricklayers' Union. He said that he wanted the carpenters to take notice that Masonic Hall must be vacated by the end of this week as there was every prospect that the Bricklayers would want it next week. They had determined to make a push for eight hours, and were just now trying to effect their purpose by arbitration. If that failed, a strike would be undertaken that would not fail this time. As this was the first strike of the carpenters, a little advice from men who had had experience in such labor movements, might not come amiss. Compose your Committee of men who have been "through the mill" before. He had said some things in his conference with bosses that he would have blushed to say a few years ago. He had learned that flattery would go a great way, and that molasses would catch more flies than vinegar. Experience would teach them the truth of what a prominent statesman had said: "If you don't hang together you will certainly hang separately." In conclusion he pledged them money and fists from the Bricklayers' Union.

Figures published to-day shows that workingmen's wages in New York are the same as last year. The present strike for eight hours is being warmly canvassed among all classes of artisans. The painters and stonecutters of New York, and the bricklayers of Brooklyn, now work but eight hours at the old wages for ten hours. The carpenters of Brooklyn work eight hours for 50 cents less per day. At Newark masons and laborers have struck for eight hours and 12 per cent more wages. Men employed in the furniture trade are discussing a strike. This trade is represented by four German, two French, and one English Eight-Hour League, and has a central organization. A portion of the journeymen tailors have formed a new Union, one of the leading ideas of which is to avoid all strikes or difficulties with their employers, if possible. The grinders and polishers connected with the silver, nickel, brass, and iron business have combined for a trade association to regulate their hours of labor and rates of pay.

The Strike at the Superior Mines.

DETROIT, Mich., May 14.—The Tribune's special, this morning, from Houghton, L. S., says that the strike of miners is general at the Calumet, Hecla, Schoolcraft, Quincy, Franklin, and Pewabic mines. Two thousand men are engaged. Ringleaders at the Calumet and Hecla have been arrested, but were rescued by a mob, from sixteen Deputy Sheriffs. No one has been injured as yet, although the strike has been going on for twelve days.

DETROIT, Mich., May 14.—In response to earnest despatches from the Circuit Judge and Prosecuting Attorney at Houghton, asking that more than one company may be sent up there to look after the striking miners, another detachment of fifty United States troops, from Fort Gratiot and Fort Wayne, left this city this morning for the Upper Peninsula, via Chicago and Green Bay.

"Strikes."

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:

SIR: The conflict of Labor against Capital seems to wax wrathy, and will go on till Capital and Labor are equalized, though it may be many years yet before the two parties fully understand and concede to each other their relative positions and just merits. Capital (rather, its possessors) sometimes seems to be terribly offended when Labor (rather, those who live by working) intimates that it has rights that Capital ought to respect, and to grow indignant when Labor threatens to assert its right by a "strike." Some good people of both sides discountenance all agitations of the contest, and hold up their hands in horror if a strike is meditated or determined upon, because of the woes and sufferings that such will bring upon "Betsey and little ones."

Is not this very contest one of the largest branches of the "conflict of ages?" What are wars but strikes of an aggrieved party against the aggressors? Are not the aggressors most generally the capitalists, represented in Kings, rulers, &c., who rule unjustly with their power, as represented in the greater amount of the needful—money? What was our late civil war but a "strike" of Labor against Capital? Did not the bondsman in slavery represent Labor unjustly dealt with? Did not the slaveholder represent Capital as a power over Labor? Was this power of Capital a real and just one, or an unjust one? Any one sees now that it was an unjust one, or a misuse of the power that Capital represents. Where is there a sensible man who now regrets the gigantic strike and triumph of Labor against Capital as in the late civil war, whereby the bondsmen went up a peg or two in "civil rights," and Capital came down a peg or two, to the acknowledgement that others have rights that they are now compelled by the Fifteenth Amendment to respect?

We read in papers of the suffering sometimes caused by a strike of workmen; but what is it all compared to a war-strike? What terrible lessons all such teach of centralization in Government, and the evil influence of the "almighty dollar," wrongly valued, in the hands of the few. What heroes and heroines those poor people are who resist, at the loss of dollars and cents, and comforts of life, and readily sacrifice their lives, too, upon the altar of civil and equal rights of all, before the law of justice.

It is said that, if people would not strike, there would be no suffering, etc.; as though it was the strikers who are in the wrong. I, for one, fling this insult to my manhood and rights back in the face of those who made it. Do you suppose that men would be such fools as to "kick up a fuss" when they are fully and fairly paid for their time, talent, and skill? A careful review of the first part of the "conflict of ages" will reveal the fact that in eight wars out of ten, capital is the one at the bottom of most of our wars and woes!

Had the powers that be been just all and every time, where would the conflict be? Had the pro-slavery oligarch conceded the rights in full pay and just treatment, from the first to the last, of their slaves, where would the civil war come in at? Was it not the injustice in pay and treatment that brought on the conflict which ended so disastrously as it did? Were they not so blind that they could not see the "dollar beyond the dime?"

With these hasty views of the past before us, do we not see where the shoe pinches in the present conflict of Labor against Capital that is agitated in our time and midst? Is Capital never going to learn lessons of wisdom and prudence from the past? Are the capitalists of this nation and this city going to again defy the rights of man as represented in labor? Do they not now see by the past that, unless they concede the demands of justice, time and forces will compel them to yield or force them to the wall, as it did slavery? We can't lay our finger upon a conflict in the past but what justice compels the oligarch to "cave in," or forced him to the wall, and that, too, with such force that he never regained his former strength, and often never survived the conflict.

That there are wrongs on both sides, is not to be denied, and there is no use denying; but that the conflict will go on till it gains its just reward for the poor and oppressed, need take no prophet to foretell.

As to the conflict in regard to the eight-hour system, I would say that both parties err. Those who work only eight hours do more per hour than when working ten hours, because less men worked, and the work is also of better quality generally; but to obtain the wages of ten hours for eight hours is a little too much. While, on the other hand, Capital ought to be wise enough to see that the quality of work on the eight-hours' system is better than that on ten hours, yet it is selfish enough to want it at the same rate per hour. The justice of the whole matter is, that the laborer should receive what is due him for quality of work, &c. Thus, if a man gets $2.50 for ten hours, Capital only wants to pay him $2 for eight hours; when, in fact, he should receive $2.25, or the difference between eight and ten hours. It seems strange that the two parties never reflected on this. Any one can see that a man working only eight hours a day will do as much in quantity and quality as he will in nine hours when working on the ten-hour system. A good muscle is worth more than one over taxed. In winter time, workmen often lose more or less time, as the days are short.

No man should work hard or steady over eight hours in the twenty-four. Head knowledge is as essential in Labor as it is in Capital, if not more so. Capital and Labor should be the best of friends, as they cannot live and act separately, but should live and act as a one, and, as signs of the times can be read on the pages of the past, it would be wise for both parties to come together in public meeting, and discuss the matter as men, and thus, in a peaceful way, settle all difficulties as to wages, &c., and thus avoid the waste of time and money in strikes; and, as Capital is the aggressor, it should be the first to move in the matter, by invitations to Labor to discuss the difficulty, and agree upon some mutual plan of action; otherwise it will be "On to Richmond" in dead earnest at all hazards.

PHILO.

P. S.—I belong to no "Union" or secret Lodge of any kind; am not a day laborer, but have penned the above in behalf of justice to both parties, as seen by the light of the past, and in broad humanity, &c.

ACADEMY OF SCIENCES.

Donations of Valuable Works—A Fine Living Tarantula Presented to the Academy by Mr. Walker—Habits of the Insect.

A regular meeting of the Academy of Sciences was held last evening, the Hon. J. Y. Scammon in the chair.

Mr. Walker reported the receipt of a number of volumes from all parts of the world through the Smithsonian Institute.

Mr. George C. Walker also reported that among the papers of the late Charles A. Norton, was found a bequest of twenty-six volumes of the Cyclopædia Britannica, which bequest was carried out by Mrs. Norton.

The resignation of Mr. Charles Wade, presented on account of distant residence from the Academy, was read and accepted.

Mr. George C. Walker placed upon the table a tin box about a foot long and four inches wide, and equally deep, with a perforated lid. Those present inquired whence it came and what it contained. Mr. Walker replied that he had there the only living specimen of the tarantula in the city. On opening the box, Mr. Walker disclosed a quantity of earth, and a dark, hairy-looking mass of legs, measuring about four inches across. This mass slowly resolved itself into a gigantic spider and moved lazily about his prison. Mr. Walker stated that while in New Orleans he purchased a string of bananas and packed them in his trunk. On opening the trunk in the city he noticed an unaccountable looking bunch of straw, which, when investigated, yielded the insect. Mr. Walker immediately found him a berth in the box, gave him plenty of earth, and occasionally let him out in the daylight. He was discovered in Chicago more than a month ago, and has flourished much in his captivity. He has already shed his skin once, and grown immensely. Dirt and fresh air appear to agree with him.

It was determined to photograph the visitor, and build a fire proof cage for him.

It was announced that at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Academy it was determined to rebuild the Academy on the old site, and nearly the same plan—fire-proof and substantial, four-stories and basement in height. A block of stores will be built in front of the Academy, also four stories and basement. The total cost of the two buildings will be about $100,000.

The Academy adjourned.

UNION CATHOLIC LIBRARY.

Annual Meeting for the Election of Officers—The Association in a Flourishing Condition.

The annual election of officers of the Union Catholic Library Association took place last evening, at No. 133 South Desplaines street. The voting was by ballot. Woman suffrage fully recognized by the Society, made the election novel and of unusual interest. Not only did ladies vote, but they were voted for, the two tickets, the "Regular" and the "Opposition," having one or more of the better sex among the candidates. In this social way the ladies bore the honors of "equal rights" gracefully enough. Their presence added zest to the contest, and they watched the result with as much interest as the male members. The regular ticket was triumphant, with one exception, the result being as follows:

President—W. J. Onahan.
First Vice President—T. J. Duffy.
Second Vice President—J. Hannon.
Corresponding Secretary—F. E. Tourtellotte.
Financial Secretary—M. F. Scannell.
Recording Secretary—E. E. S. Eagle.
Treasurer—H. T. Murray.
Board of Managers—W. H. Condon, W. Hesing, J. H. Burke, Dr. W. P. Dunne, T. F. Judge, Thomas Breman, Miss M. F. Buchanan, John O'Neill, W. A. Hoyne, J. E. Heneberry, W. J. English.

The Society is recovering from the disastrous effects of the fire, which burned up its handsome rooms, and one of the best selections of books in the city. It is rising with energy from the ruins. Already the nucleus of a new library has been collected, the tables are covered with magazines and newspapers, the membership is still large and increasing, and in the future the Society promises to do much good in the field it is intended to occupy.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Mortality Reports for the Past Week and Month of April.

A Large Number of Deaths Caused by Cerebro-Spinal Meningitis and Small-Pox.

Mayor Medill Gives Notice that the Rendering House Nuisance Must Be Abated.

A regular meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon, the Hon. Samuel Hoard in the chair. There were also present Drs. Rauch and Schloetzer. A petition of citizens, asking the appointment of James Conway as a Sanitary policeman, was referred to the Committee on Sanitary Police.

DON'T WANT TO BE UNIFORMED.

A communication, signed by all the Sanitary Police, begging the Board to reconsider their determination to uniform that body, on the grounds of high rent, high price of labor, and high price of everthing else. It was laid on the table.

The Committee on Uniform reported, through Dr. Rauch, asking further time. He believed the interests of the Board demanded that the officers be uniformed. The uniforms might be cheap, and of such a character that when the policemen left the employment of the Board, they could, with very little expense, convert their official garments into civil suits.

Mr. Hoard was not anxious to oppress anyone but thought the business of the Board would be greatly facilitated by the adoption of a uniform.

The Committee was allowed further time to report.

WEEKLY MORTALITY REPORT.

Dr. Rauch submitted his usual mortality report, of which the following is an abstract: The total number of deaths for the week ending May 11, 1872, was 165; for the week preceding, 144, showing an increase of 21. Since March 12, the number of infected houses reported has been as follows, showing a singularly rhythmical rise and fall in numbers:

West Side, north of Twelfth street—38, 24, 28, 27, 19, 19, 12, 19, 19, 19.

A WEEK OF SMALL-POX.

Following are the deaths by small-pox for the week ending May 11, 1872: May 5, No. 258 Clayton street, female, aged 23, German; May 5, No. 285 South Morgan street, male, aged 40, Hollander; May 5, Fox-place, female, aged 10 months, foreign parents; May 5, No. 149 Hulburt street, male, aged 9 years, foreign parentage; May 6, No. 1746 State street, male, aged 41 years, native American; May 6, No. 560 South Morgan street, male, aged 1 year, foreign parentage; May 7, No. 475 Chicago avenue, female, aged 32 years, German; May 7, Small-Pox Hospital, male, aged 21 years, German; May 7, Small-Pox Hospital, female, aged 8 months, Poland; May 8, Small-Pox Hospital, male, aged 35 years, England; May 8, Cleaver street, female, aged 4 years, foreign parentage; May 8, No. 200 Blackhawk street, female, aged 51 years, German; May 9, Clybourn place, female, aged 1 month, foreign parentage; May 9, Sheffield avenue, female, aged 4 years, foreign parentage; May 9, No. 246 Mohawk street, female, aged 2 years, foreign parentage; May 10, No. 751 South May street, female, aged 3 years, foreign parentage; May 10, No. 27 Heine street, male, aged 8 years, native American; May 10, No. 36 Bradley street, female, aged 36 years, German; May 11, No. 203 Maxwell street, male, aged 16 months, foreign parentage; May 11, No. 44 Bradley street, male, aged 1 year, foreign parentage; May 11, No. 751 May street, male, aged 5 months, foreign parentage.

REMARKS.

The decrease in the number of infected houses is less than for the same time since the last week in November. Many of the cases reported are immigrants and new arrivals. All the cases are persons who have not been recently vaccinated, or never, and many have no faith in vaccination, or prefer not to interfere with the ways of Providence. Out of the whole number, only two, with the exception of those born in Chicago, are of foreign parentage, and had never been vaccinated. One of those born in the United States, the Sanitary Superintendent explains, had but recently arrived. In a number of instances where the Sanitary Inspector visited the homes, the parties declined vaccination, saying that they had recently been vaccinated, which was afterward found to be false. The number of those under five years was greater than for any week since the prevalence of small-pox. Three deaths were not reported, the parties having called in no physician, with the hope that by so doing they would escape quarantine and injury to their business. The work of cleaning the city is progressing, but not as fast as desirable. The day scavenger work is much neglected.

The increase in the death-rate, compared with last week, was decided, but not greater than was to be expected, considering that for two weeks previous there had been a decrease. Compared with last week there had been an increase of 5 by consumption, 5 by convulsions, 3 by croup, 2 by scarlet fever, 3 by heart diseases, 2 by congestion of the lungs, 6 by meningitis, and 9 by small-pox; while there were two less by cancer, 2 by diarrhœa, 6 by diphtheria, 2 by enteritis, and 2 by hydrocephalus. There was a slight decrease in the causes of death, while the greatest increase by ages was between 20 and 50 years. Male mortality increased, with diminution of those born in the United States, and an increase of those of foreign birth. The mean temperature was 7½° higher than last week.

MONTHLY REPORT.

The mortality report for the month of April was also submitted, having been delayed by the Coroner, whose returns had not been made at the right time. The total number of deaths for the month was 756, showing an increase of 12 over the number for March. Of the decedents 412 were males, 344 females; 207 married, 549 single; 11 colored, and 745 white. The principal causes of death were as follows: Accidents, 31; brain diseases, 31; consumption, 67; convulsions, 6; heart disease, 11; hydrocephalus, 13; meningitis, 28; cerebro-spinal meningitis, 75; small-pox, 80; suicide, 5. The average daily mortality for the month was 25 1-5; the mean thermometer, 48.2 deg; rain fall, 2.596.

The brevity of the monthly report is accounted for by the loss of the documents by Dr. Rauch the evening before.

SCAVENGER WORK.

Dr. Reed, Health Officer, called the attention of the Board to the inefficient manner in which the scavenger work of the city was being carried on. The contractor had been remonstrated with, and complained that his force was too small, and that he would lose heavily by the contract, but would endeavor to live up to it. This promise he had made before, without any apparent change for the better.

Dr. Rauch said the moving of dead animals was being well conducted.

NECESSITY FOR A NEW MORGUE.

Dr. Rauch moved that the county authorities be requested to make some provision for the establishment of a Morgue in some locality where it would be less offensive than it is at present.

The motion prevailed.

The Morgue has, since the fire, been situated upon Milwaukee avenue, and has spoiled the tempers of the property-owners in the vicinity.

DRINKING FOUNTAINS.

A motion was also made that the attention of the Board of Public Works be respectfully called to the subject of drinking fountains, and that they be requested to construct them when and wherever it was possible.

The motion was agreed to.

RENDERING.

Mr. Turner called the attention of the Board to the fact that there were two systems of rendering meat in slaughter houses, the high and low pressure systems. Tobey & Booth used a low pressure, and he used a high pressure apparatus. The Board, in framing the ordinance, evidently did so without understanding their system.

Mayor Medill inquired the capacity of the tubs used by the applicant.

Dr. Rauch said they had none.

Mr. Turner said Dr. Rauch might tell such yarns if he wanted to, but he knew better.

After further discussion, the Board decided not to alter the regulations heretofore made by them.

Mr. Turner said that, after viewing the plans, he was satisfied.

The Mayor said he had visited a neighboring establishment to that of Mr. Turner. He had entertained an idea that perhaps the reports of the nuisance had been exaggerated, but from experience he found it impossible to exaggerate it. To a person who had not been brought up in it, and accustomed to it, it was terrible. These stenches must be stopped.

The parties applied for a permit, subject to the regulations of the Board.

The Board adjourned.

Clinton, Iowa.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune:

CLINTON, IOWA, May 12.

SIR: The business and future prospects of this town are becoming better every day, as the railroads and other new enterprises continue to assume a more tangible form. The Chicago, Omaha & St. Joseph Railroad Company have opened an office here, and will soon be ready to receive and deliver freights. Already citizens of this county have begun, through a 90 per cent reduction on freights, to receive back the amount voted (but not yet paid) in aid of the above named road.

The Chicago, Clinton & Dubuque Railroad is fast approaching us from the north, and will seek an outlet to Chicago via the bridge soon to be erected by a Company recently organized, with a capital of $1,200,000 for that purpose.

Our facilities for manufacturing, when these roads shall have been completed, will be equalled by no other town in the State; and I confidently predict that, in ten years' time, our little city of 9,000 inhabitants will have a population second to none in Iowa.

DETERMINED TO WED.

An Apparently Highly Respectable Young Lady Becomes the Wife of An Incarcerated Hotel Thief.

The Marriage Ceremony Performed Yesterday in the County Jail By Chief Justice Banyon.

In the actual occurrences of every-day life, these frequently appears a tragic or romantic incident which challenges the ingenuity of the most fertile imagination to equal in the realm of fancy. It is but a few days since THE TRIBUNE described a marriage ceremony wherein the hand of a penniless orphan, an inmate of a charitable institution, was won by a gentleman so far removed in station from the object of his affections as to make the union a seeming improbability. Yesterday a similar ceremony was performed amid the gloom and crime of the County Jail, under circumstances of a most peculiar character.

The first intimation the jail authorities had that a wedding was to be celebrated inside the bars and bolts that confine our local criminals, was given on Monday morning, when a handsome, fashionably-dressed, and apparently respectable young lady called at the Sheriff's office, and inquired of one of Tim Bradley's men if there was any person about who could perform a marriage ceremony. Before giving her any reply, the embryo Sheriff, with that outspoken audacity which is characteristic of officers of the law, bluntly asked her for the name of the man whom she wanted to marry. She informed him that he was a prisoner confined in the Jail under the alias of Wright. The Sheriff's officer inquired if she was aware of the character of the man Wright, and of the fact that he was awaiting trial before the Criminal Court on the charge of being a mean sneak-thief. The girl replied that she knew more about him than anybody could tell her of, and that she was determined to become his wife, even if he would be sentenced to the Penitentiary for ten years the instant after they were married.

Finding that all his persuasive eloquence and stern denunciation were unheeded by the self-sacrificing female, the attachés of the Sheriff's office directed her to two Justices of the Peace in the vicinity of the old Court House. It appears that both of the legal fledglings were so busy arbitrating between belligerent housewives and intemperate friends that they were unable to accommodate the seeker after a husband. Accordingly, she was compelled to wait until yesterday for the consummation of her desires. She called upon them again yesterday forenoon, and found that the number of their cases had not decreased.

Determined that another day should not find her a maid, she hailed a carriage, and was driven to the residence of a young lady friend. The latter was importuned to act as bridesmaid. She consented, and arrayed herself in an elegant attire, suitable for the occasion. The pair then entered the carriage, and the prospective bride directed the driver to take them to Justice Banyon's office, on State street, in the shortest time consistent with the qualifications of his nags. They arrived at the office just in time to meet the portly Justice on the way to his noon-day meal. The would-be wife approached him and said:

"Justice, I want you to marry me!"

"My dear madam," replied His Honor, "I don't intend to do anything of the sort. I'm perfectly satisfied to remain as I am."

The young lady explained that she did not mean that the Judge should contract a matrimonial alliance; she only wanted him to perform the marriage ceremony for herself and another. The Judge asked for the license, and the young lady produced it. It authorized the marriage of Amos D. Long and Louisa E. Smith. The Judge said it was the duty of the man to request his services. The young lady replied that the man was a prisoner in the County Jail, and unable to give his personal attention to the matter. The Judge inquired if Long had an alias. The young lady said yes; his other name was Wright.

Banyon at once remembered having sent such a person before the Criminal Court for trial on two or three charges of larceny. He reasoned with the girl, and endeavored to dissuade her from her intention. She refused to be dissuaded, however, and entreated the Judge to get into the carriage and go with her to the jail. He finally consented, and in the politest manner imaginable, handed the young lady into the vehicle, and installed himself in a seat beside the bridesmaid.

Upon arrival at "Castle Folz" the party was ushered to the cell of the prisoner Wright. He was allowed to come out in the corridor, where the ceremony was performed, Mr. C—y B—y, of the Sheriff's office, standing up with the groom. (C—y B—y does not like to have his name spelled out, as he was asked to "stand up" by the bridesmaid, who is an acquaintance of his, and Mrs. C—y B—y might not be pleased with it).

Miss Louisa E. Smith, or rather Mrs. Amos D. Long, left the jail as soon as the knot had been properly tied. Her husband was put back in his little cell. The Judge and the bridesmaid, after seeing that he was properly secured, wished him success, etc., and then retraced their steps, one going to his office, and the other to her residence. No one knew the bride, nor would she give her residence. It is said that she belongs to a highly respectable and wealthy family in this city. Her attire and demeanor would indicate as much. She is apparently infatuated with the man Long, who is a passably good-looking fellow and the possessor of a villainous reputation. His avocation is that of hotel-thief, and he is now awaiting trial on charges preferred by the proprietors of Jenk's & Prince's Hotel. His mode of doing business is to register his name, and then get himself assigned to a room with a green countryman. He wakes up first in the morning, appropriates the countryman's wallet and watch, and leaves the hotel before anybody but the watchman is astir. It is said that he is good for five years in the Penitentiary, but that he expects to escape sentence through the influence of his wife's friends. He himself has got respectable relatives in the East, who exerted themselves in his behalf when arrested on a criminal charge once before. What Miss Smith could see in Mr. Long to admire is a mystery to every one but herself.

THE PRISON QUESTION.

Important Meeting of the Boards of Commissioners of Public Charities of Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

A joint meeting was held, yesterday, at the Sherman House, of the Board of State Commissioners of Public Charities of the State of Illinois, the Wisconsin State Board of Charities and Reform, and the Commissioners for the General Supervision of Penal, Reformatory, and Charitable Institutions in the State of Michigan. The organization and duties of these three Boards are very similar. They are required by law to visit and report upon all the State and county institutions in their respective States. They met together by invitation of the Illinois Board to compare their mutual experiences and conclusions, and especially to discuss the question of punishment of criminals by imprisonment in county jails. There were present from Wisconsin, H. H. Giles, of Madison, President; William C. Allen, of Racine; Mrs. Mary E. B. Lynde, of Milwaukee; Willard Merrill, of Janesville; Samuel D. Hastings, of Madison. From Michigan, William B. Williams, of Allegan; C. M. Croswell, of Adrian, Secretary. From Illinois, Elmer Baldwin, of Ottawa, President; Selden M. Church, of Rockford; Z. B. Lawson, of Chesterfield; Rev. Frederick H. Wines, of Springfield, Secretary.

Judge Allen was chosen President of the Conference, and Mr. C. M. Croswell Secretary. After spending the day in mutual interchange of views, the following declaration was unanimously adopted:

> The object of the imprisonment of criminals is conceded by all to be two-fold—the protection of society and the criminal himself. The protection of society is effected in part by the segregation of the offender, and in part by the deterrent influence of punishment upon others who are tempted to commit crime.
> A minute and careful examination of the jails of Illinois and Michigan by kindred commissions specially appointed for this purpose, reveals the fact that, as proper places of punishment, they fail to accomplish the object of their creation. They are for the most part defective in a sanitary point of view; many of them are insecure; they are frequently so constructed as to compel the promiscuous association of the young and the old, the guilty and the innocent, the hardened villain and the novice in crime, and, in some cases, even of the sexes. In none of them is there provision for the employment of the imprisoned inmates; and there are few in which any attempt is made either to their intellectual or moral culture. In the aggregate they cost large sums of money for their construction, and are a great annual expense to the community, without adequate return for this expenditure. The finest and most costly of them all, however superior in architectural construction, exerts as little reformatory effect as the poorest. Their condemnation may be pronounced in a single sentence: They are an absurd attempt to cure crime, the offspring of idleness, by making idleness compulsory. The failure of the jails is due, not to the character of the officers who have charge of them, but to this radical defect in the jail system itself, which originated in the primitive condition of our National history, and was then the only thing possible. It has been blindly copied and extended with the growth of the country, in consequence of the difficulty of effecting any change after the investment of so much money.
> We are satisfied that for enforced idleness the State should substitute enforced labor. We are also satisfied that no remunerative system of labor can be introduced into County Jails on account of the very limited number of prisoners in each. The only remedy for the evils of the present system consists in the substitution of houses of correction in their stead. The County Jails should be remodeled, and simply used as houses of detention. One or two prisons in each State, of a character intermediate between the jail and the Penitentiary, might be so organized and conducted as to diminish the cost of crime, and to diminish its amount. The cost of original construction would be diminished by the substitution of a single capacious edifice for fifty or sixty similar ones. The cost of maintainance of criminals would be diminished by the aggregate amount of their earnings, while enforced labor would benefit the prisoner himself and exert an increased deterrent influence upon the criminal class at large. The modern facilities for transportation of criminals by rail remove to a great extent the objection arising from distance.
> We believe that the time has come for an earnest effort to call public attention to this subject and to prepare the way for a great public reform. In this effort we invoke the aid of all philanthropists, believing that no one who has seen what we have seen can fail to adopt the conclusions which have been enforced upon our own minds.

The meeting then adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning, when the party expect to visit the new Bridewell, if the weather permits.

THE LEXINGTON, KY., RACES.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 14.—The exciting sport of Monday gave additional interest to the proceedings of to-day, while the national reputation of two, at least, of the entries in the second race gave promise of achievements far above the average. In consequence, the attendance was immense. The grand stand, capable of seating 7,500, and another of a capacity of 1,500, were not sufficient to afford standing room to the anxious throng gathered to witness this, the grandest of sports. The managers have considered it necessary to erect a third stand. The workmen are employed on it, and it is expected that it will be in readiness to-morrow for the accommodation of visitors. The manner in which the meetings of this Association are conducted, the careful exclusion from the privilege of the track of all that is unfair or savors of jockeying, the protection of visitors from offences against good taste or good morals, has done much to break down the barrier which a rigid Puritanism has set up to shut out the people from the pleasures of the turf. In nothing was this more strikingly shown than in the increase in the number of fair ladies who graced with their presence the contests to-day. The weather was warm and cheerful. The many hundreds of beautiful toilets scattered over the grand stand gave the scene more the appearance of an open air opera matinee than an assemblage to witness a race horse. There were two races, one of mile heats for three-year olds, and one of a dash of one and a quarter miles, for a club purse of $150. The favorite in the former was Planetarium, the winner of the sweepstakes yesterday, who won the race in two straight heats under a dead pull. Time, 1:46 and 1:46¼.

The second race is perhaps the most remarkable on record, the time being the fastest ever made for mile and a quarter dash, the race having been run in 2:09¼. In the pools, Frogtown, Stanhope's entry, and Mollie Cad, Thomas' entry, were the favorites, but in the race Frogtown had everything his own way. Mollie Cad received a bad start, and never recovered, although in the last quarter she closed an awful gap between her and the second horse, so that Frogtown came in a good length ahead, though not such an easy winner. Time in the above as stated, 2:09¼, the other horses strung out in Indian file. The following is a summary of the races:

Base Ball.

THE ÆTNAS—PRACTICE GAME.

A portion of the Ætna nine, filled up with such players as chanced to be on hand, played a picked nine yesterday afternoon at the corner of Laflin and Jackson streets, the Ætnas being victorious by a score of 18 to 10. The game was not especially interesting as a display of skill, but served the purpose of giving the boys practice. The friends of the Ætnas are highly pleased at the engagement of Pinkham, who is expected to make his appearance in two or three days. If they could now only secure Treacy, who has been dropped from the Athletic nine of Philadelphia, and place Lapham on first base, the Ætna team would be positively complete, and would be in a position to throw down the gauntlet to any and all comers, and fitly represent Chicago in the base ball arena. With such a nine, we should have no need to depend upon an Eastern club to afford amusement this summer, and the Ætnas would soon gain as firm a hold on popular favor as that formerly enjoyed by the White Stockings. A little energetic stirring about by lovers of the game would probably gain the desired result. It ought to be done.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

A meeting of the members of Kormendy's Gymnasium will be held at the Gymnasium, No. 1052 Indiana avenue, this evening, for the purpose of organizing a base ball club. A full attendance is requested.

CITY AFFAIRS IN BRIEF.

An Old Newspaper.

Colonel W. H. Swallow, the proprietor of the Barnes House, has in his possession a copy of the New Hampshire Gazette, printed at Portsmouth, January 30, 1799. Besides giving the latest news of Bonaparte's Egyptian expedition, it contains the following interesting information on the subject of American claims for compensation for injury done to our shipping by the British. A member of Congress writes from Philadelphia:

> I find that in the course of last week the Commissioners who were sitting in this city on British claims, have, on the part of the British agents, endeavored to establish some rules and regulations, with respect to said claims, which are not founded on any rules of law or equity that have been acknowledged in this country as such. In consequence of which our two Commissioners have seceded from the business; and, from what I hear, there will be an end of that business at present. This, when known in London, will have an effect on the Commissioners who are settling our claims for the spoliations made on our commerce; and will, without doubt, prevent any farther payment until this matter is so far adjusted as again to be in a train for settlement.

A Victim of Foul Play.

Another of those mysterious cases of viol death which tax the ingenuity of the most exp detectives to unravel, has been brought to notice by the appearance of the dead body man in the river, at an early hour yeste morning. About 5 o'clock, one of the tender Twelfth street bridge observed it floating water, close to the West Side docks, and, with assistance of a policeman, lifted it out. Upon amination a bullet hole was found in the breast, immediately over the heart. The Coro was notified as soon as possible, but, owing to accumulation of previous cases, he was una to give his attention to the matter until abo o'clock in the afternoon. During the time intervened, the body lay on the dock in full v of passers-by on Twelfth street bridge, and a la crowd of morbid curiosity-seekers, which no the of the police could disperse, remained about street, bridge, and docks until the corpse removed to the dead house, on Milwau avenue. A number of people who missed re lives or friends viewed the body through day, but the features were so disfigured by composition that identification was almost possible. Many turned away, saying that remains were not those of their John, Frank, Tom, as the case might be, thus leav an impression on the minds of bystanders that a dozen or m men had mysteriously disappeared recen Two men, one of whom was drunk, were posi that they recognized deceased. The intoxica individual said that the man's name was Fra Joyce, that he had been a machinist in Boutor Works, and that he used to reside Butterfield street. In proof of his assertion, asked any person who felt so disposed to exami the dead man's right arm, on which was stamp in India ink the initials "F. J." No one seem willing to explore, but when the Coroner ca he sought for the marks and could not find the The other man was positive that the body that of a young man whom he knew, but who name or residence he could not recollect. He left his home some weeks since to draw mo from a bank in order to defray his wedding penses, and had not since been seen. The Coro searched the clothing of deceased, but could nothing by which he could be identified. He cordingly ordered the body to be taken to dead house.

Late last evening John Sarlak, of No. 149 quar street, visited that institution, and identi the body as that of his brother Matthew, aged who had resided at the corner of Eight street and Canalport avenue. He was a tailo and had worked for the firm of O. P. Kellog Co. One afternoon, about two weeks ago, his home to deliver some coats to his employe who gave him $26. He had $4 his pocket beside. Since that he had not been seen, and friends supposed that he had left the city, had been talking about doing so.

No money was found upon the body whe was discovered, and this circumstance is cons ered as positive evidence that the young was murdered by some person or persons w saw the money with him. About the tim Sarlak's disappearance an altercation heard, late at night, in the vicinity Jackson or Van Buren streets, the river, and, during its progress, a shot and loud cry was heard, after which all be quiet. Diligent search was made by the pol at the time, but they did not meet with succ This fact, in conjunction with the one that money was found upon the body, leads to supposition that Sarlak was shot and the thrown into the river. The evidence at the inqu to-day may reveal something new.
